Pops Conductor Walter Noona Said VOG Did Him A "Favor" Am To Resign
Noona Challenges The Virginia Orchestra Group's Claim To Be Regional Orchestra

By Greg Goldfarb

In less than a year, Walter Noona lost his job, faced an uncertain future, but had the community support and fortitude not only to create a new orchestra but to also build a strong, thriving organization.

Noona, who resigned under pressure last spring from the Virginia Orchestra Group (VOG), as conductor of its Virginia Pops, said the dismissal was really a blessing in disguise.

"I don't have any bad blood," Noona, who now conducts his own Virginia Beach Pops, said. "They really did me a favor. Seriously! I don't look over my shoulder. I don't worry about secret meetings. I don't walk into an office and be accused of something I didn't have anything to do with. Now I'm completely surrounded by loyalty, goodwill and love."

Looking ahead to his fourth concert of his Pops' debut season, Noona said local residents are responsible for the Pops' organization's success.

"The people here said, 'It's our concept. We created the audience that wants the Pops. Why should we be told to take a flying leap?' That's what they said," Noona said. "They told us to just go away. We don't want you. We want your audience. They kept all our music. We didn't have a sheet of music to start with."

When Virginia Beach puts its mind to it, it can do about anything it wants as exhibited by the forthcoming new arts center and marine science museums. Consequently, when the call went out that support was needed for the Virginia Beach Pops, help was not hard to find. The Pops now enjoys a board of directors and an auxiliary, both consisting of more than 100 members. Their efforts have formed an orchestra and an administrative organization which has worked to sell out the Pops first three concerts at the Dome.

It's a feat that even Noona himself thought couldn't be accomplished.

"I was the big doubter," Noona admitted, a confession with which his wife Carol agreed. "Putting an orchestra together? Getting the

Flood Plains Preserved

By Lee Cahill
Council Reporter

Virginia Beach City Council Monday afternoon unanimously adopted changes in the flood plain ordinances that will restrict development in the southern part of the city.

The provisions prohibit the filling in of the flood plain and subsequently, for all practical purposes, the subdivision of property except for agricultural property, in the flood plain.

The flood plain includes 30,000 acres of which 27,500 acres are zoned agricultural.

Of three alternates proposed, Council adopted the third alternate which expands an explanation of intent, clarifies an explanation of lot area calculation, substitutes the flood plain elevation for the six-foot elevation rule which governs regulation of low areas in lot area requirements and permits filling to promote proper septic tank function. With the changes in the lot-size the flood plains will be able to subdivide their property without filling in.

The provision does not prohibit development but would keep water marsh and wetlands from being included in lot area calculations.

City Awards Exceptional Employees

On Thursday, Dec. 8, the City of Virginia Beach will hold its 13th Annual Service Awards Program. It will be held in the Pavilion at 8 p.m.

It's purpose is to commend service performed by municipal employees, recognize that an employee's contribution grows with each additional year of service; and encourage career employment with the City.

Employees who have attained permanent status and are employed on a full time basis are eligible to participate in the Service Awards Program.

Awards are determined on the basis of the number of continuous months of service. Employees receive pin awards, certificates, cash awards or a combination of those according to their length of service. An employee's first award is a pin given after five years of service. Cash awards are given to employees with ten or more years of service and range from 1-4% of the employee's annual salary. This year approximately 1,250 cash and/or pin awards will be given with cash awards totaling approximately $200,000.

The 40 year award will go to: Percy Bly, General Services/Beautification.

30 Year Award to: George K. Bryan, Police Patrol; Ernest R. Cockrell, Agriculture; Harry L. Hamberry, Public Works/Street Maintenance.

25 Year Award to: James Britt, Public Works/Refuse Collection; Elsie M. Brown, General Services/

"Wonderous Love," a mountain choral drama of the Nativity by Eusebia Simpson Hunkins, will be presented at the Virginia Beach United Methodist Church, 207 - 18th Street, on Thursday and Friday, Dec. 8 and 9 at 8 p.m. It will feature the Charles Wesley Choir and a dramatic cast of actors.

The setting is the mountains of early America and the music is folk music of that time. A country preacher, portrayed by Hall Snellings, tells the story of the visit of Christ as the townspeople enact the roles of Mary, Joseph, the Shepherds and Wisemen. Accompaniment for the fifty-voice choir will be provided by Wanda Lequire, organist, and Judy Kernell, harpist. Martha Jo Wilson is dramatic director; Laura Ezell, technical director, and Joyce Clarke, musical director.

It wasn't the golfers burning up the greens at the Princess Anne Country Club golf course, it was the grounds keeper. And, it wasn't the greens which were ignited, it was the leaves in the nearby woods.

"I Was The Big Doubter," Noona Says

Winners!

sound we would have to have? I said it was impossible. It can't be done! I said you're crazy."
He wasn't crazy. He has conducted three successful concerts, five more are scheduled; subscription tickets sales are flourishing and the Pops' Executive Director Jim Kreger said they are considering adding an additional performance of each concert. Or, received revenues will go into a building fund for a symphony hall someday in the future.

The days of doubt for Noona are no more. "I have to sit down and eat my hat," he said. "I can't believe it." He said the success thus far has been "beyond my wildest dreams."

The success Noona now enjoys did not come without a price. During the ordeal with the VOG, numerous newspaper stories were written about him which Noona said affected his career.

Did the newspaper coverage have much impact?

"Thousands of times," he said. "Let's put it this way. Say you're a dentist and the newspaper prints that they were told, quoting, that you're no good. You're not a good dentist. You ruin mouths. How many people are going to come to your office for work?"

"All of sudden though, this fall we began to see a turnaround," Noona continued. "They began to take another look at us. To see that we were serious, that we were doing something, that we had really put our nose to the grindstone and come up with backing; a program, an organization."

Noona said he respects the VOG's role in the community, but he thinks the Virginia Beach Pops is better.

"I'm not saying anything bad about them," he said. "I'm saying that we have a better product. Not in numbers (of musicians) but in quality of sound."

"We have such a good product," Noona continued. "It isn't just a group that's gotten together. And it just isn't the fact that we have an orchestra now. We're not on the community level. We're not competing at the community level. We're competing at the professional level. Our orchestra, and I swear to you, is, except for size, the closest thing to a professional major symphony sound that this area has ever had."

The Virginia Pops is billed as an regional orchestra by the American Symphony Orchestra League because its budget exceeds $900,000. The Virginia Beach Pops budget is between $200,000 and $300,000 thus placing it under the heading of metropolitan. But Noona asks, what's in a name?

"Regionalism is a great thing. I have nothing against regionalism," Noona said. "But who's to say what regionalism has to come from Norfolk? They can call themselves regional but that doesn't make them regional. Performing everywhere and bringing something to people can make somebody regional."

Noona said that a true regional orchestra should be the representative group for the entire Tidewater area. It is a status, Noona feels, the VOG has not attained.

"I don't think the VOG has, at this time, that blessing," Noona said, "from the city of Virginia Beach, Newport News, Hampton, Williamsburg, Suffolk or Chesapeake. I don't even know if it has it from Norfolk."

The VBOA is planning special Fourth of July concert this year, children's concerts, and a chamber series next year which Kreger hopes will be in cooperation with other local arts groups.

You set out to find the right artist to teach you, you explore. And when you explore Fashion Illustration, Commercial Art, Oils, Watercolors and Basic Drawing, you inevitably become involved with Joyce Timberlake. She can offer you all this in each class and because she is always conscious of what YOU want to learn: the end result is a satisfied student. Go Ahead. Call Her. Explore.

Pops Sales Efforts Are Paying Off

Peggy Dawley is the Virginia Beach Pops' box office chairperson.

She says there are approximately 1,840 to 1,850 Pops subscribers and growing. The Virginia Beach Pops concerts have been near sellouts; no vacant seats in the evening, less than 50 for the matinees.

Ticket and subscriber sales are booming.

"I feel very good about it," she said. "The phone is ringing off the wall. I think we're going to need more seating capacity or go to a third concert."

Pops Executive Director James I. Kreger is the Pops' only full-time paid staff member. He along with the Pops' board of directors oversee a $253,087 budget. Kreger is ready to "sell out the house" at every show, he said. Subscription ticket prices range from $35 to $82 per person. Individual tickets run from $6.50 to $12.50. The Pops' next concert will be on Sunday, Jan. 29 featuring concertmaster Pam Hentges. There will be two shows at the Dome.

Flood Plains Protected

Flood plain elevations, which will be used to govern construction, vary throughout the city between elevations of five and seven feet.

The purpose of the regulations, is not to discourage development as such, but to protect the environment and to protect life and property in the area.

The problem arises when the flood plain is filled in destroying natural drainage, forcing the construction of artificial systems which City Manager Thomas H. Muehlenbeck said Monday afternoon would cost the city $1 million a year to maintain.

The flood plain refers to the areas which would be affected by storms expected to occur once in 100 years. The precautions are intended to protect the area from flood hazard, to minimize the adverse effects of urban storm water runoff into the fragile environment of Back Bay and the North Landing River, and to minimize the amount of public funds necessary to construct and maintain man-made drainage systems to supplement or replace the natural drainage systems now present.

The flood plains include the North Landing River and its tributaries south of Lynnhaven Parkway, West Neck Creek and its tributaries south of Shipp's Corner Road and London Bridge Road, and bays and creeks comprising the Back Bay system south of Dam Neck Road and east of Princess Anne Road.

Under the ordinance, any filling which would decrease the flood storage capacity in the areas or adversely affect storm water flow conditions would be prohibited. The city engineer makes his determinations under the ordinance.

In a discussion of the changes earlier at the informal Council session, Councilman Robert G. Jones noted that the

The Lighter Side...Social

Opera Samplers

Just in time for the holidays, the Virginia Opera Association is offering "Opera Samplers" as a great way to introduce newcomers to opera, and they are very affordable, so you can share the magic of opera with a friend, or indulge yourself.

The two "Opera Samplers" being offered by the VOA are as follows: "Pranksters & Gangsters" (Gianni Schicchi & Suor Angelica and Rigoletto)

This package includes the December double bill by Puccini, plus the January production of Verdi's Rigoletto, set in New York during the Roaring Twenties and sung in English. "Gangsters & Gunslings" (Rigoletto and The Girl of The Gold West)

This package includes Rigoletto in January, plus the VOA's final production of the 1983-84 season, Puccini's The Girl of the Golden West, in February.

Either of these "Opera Samplers" is available for as little as $15. Call the VOA Box Office for additional information and reservations at (804) 623-1223.

Getting "Happy" Without Drugs

For the eight million Americans who are severely afflicted with depression, therapy and medication may be the best route. But for those of us who hit an occasional downdraft of mild or moderate depression, there are a number of self-help remedies that can give a substantial boost.

Joan Heilman, writing in the December Reader's Digest, outlines mood-elevating steps that you can take yourself--"uppers," in effect, without the drugs.

Exercise. The very fact that you're taking action instead of just sitting there helps, but exercise actually changes the level of hormones in the blood.

Nutrition. Some authorities believe that even a single nutritional deficiency can cause depression in susceptible people. Vitamin therapy, when taken in accordance with a physician's instructions, is harmless and can quickly have an effect.

Think Positive. Depressed people view life darkly. Be aware that your dark feelings originate in your head and may not jibe with reality. Work on converting your negative thoughts into more realistic alternatives.

Socialize. The very fact that you feel isolated and lonely is an early-warning signal of oncoming depression. Make a point of seeing friends and keeping in touch with associates.

Check Your Medications. Many prescription drugs, Heilman warns, can cause depression as a side effect. Check with your doctor if you're taking medication.

If you frequently feel down in the dumps, your doctor or a mental-health professional can help you. Depression can be successfully treated.

Signing Santa At Military Circle

On Thursday, Dec. 8, a different kind of Santa is coming to Military Circle Shopping Center.

Children with hearing problems from the Tidewater area will be at Military Circle, beginning at 9 a.m. to visit Santa.

Special education classes have been invited to visit with our "Signing Santa." Parents of children with hearing impairments who are not enrolled in a special education program are welcome to come visit with Santa, free of charge. This will be the tenth annual "Signing Santa" program at Military Circle, and it has become the most important event of our Christmas season. The signing program gives every child the opportunity to know the joy of a visit with Santa. Many children have been denied this opportunity because their means of communication is so limited.

"Messiah" Participants Sought

The Virginia Beach Community Orchestra is sponsoring Tidewater's first Messiah Sing-Along. The event is free and open to the public on a first-come, first-served basis and will be held at the Pavilion Theatre on Monday, December 19th at 8 p.m. Musical accompaniment will be provided by the orchestra and soloists for the evening will include Anne Greunke, Soprano; Paula Segulne, Contralto; Henry Bernick, Tenor; and John Reinhardt, Bass.

Anyone interested in participating in this unique event need only come to the Pavilion Theatre and bring a "Messiah" vocal score. Although no rehearsal will be held, it would be helpful if the "audience" be prepared to sing "And the Glory of the Lord;" "He Shall Purify;" "For Unto Us a Child is Born;" "Glory to God;" "His Yoke is Easy;" and the "Hallelujah" chorus. For further information, call 467-3535.

At Lynnhaven Mall

Artist Captures "Wiggly Children"

Ever have trouble capturing your child's growing years on film or canvas? Now you can go, but art and people. I wish to Lynnhaven Mall has a solution to your problem.

Eve Myles is a noted Virginia artist who specializes in painting portraits of what she calls "wiggly children," and she'll visit Lynnhaven Mall through December 24. Although, she enjoys working with children, she also sketches portraits of adults and pets.

While at Lynnhaven, Myles will paint your child's portrait or sketch it in pastels. Sitting times and fees vary. Myles loves to work around crowds and she tries to establish a positive rapport with her subjects. Eve claims personal interaction adds a wonderful, unpredictable dimension to her work.

This fine artist says she is happiest "when combining my two loves in life--my art and people. I wish to convey this spirit in each piece of work, in each face."

Myles has painted such famous couples as Gerald and Betty Ford and Virginia Senator John Warner and his former wife, Elizabeth Taylor. One of her most famous portraits of the late President John F. Kennedy and his daughter, Caroline hangs in the JFK Library in Boston, Massachusetts.

Eve currently teaches privately in her studios in McLean, Virginia and Houston, Texas. She also lectures and prepares demonstrations for various groups across the country.

Currently, she is working on a new concept called "Video-Art."

For Children

A "Junk Box" Can Be A Treasure

Some time (maybe even now) your child will have more toys than she can use, or more than there is room for. When this happens, she may drift from one toy to another for only brief and superficial play, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

This is a sign that it is time to put some of the toys away for a while, leaving only current favorites. With a more limited selection of toys, a child will learn to be more inventive and resourceful in looking for new ways to play with each toy, and her attention span will get longer.

From time to time, switch toys from storage to playroom for an ever-changing variety. A rainy day is a good time for this activity: exchanging "old" toys for "new" toys can help overcome boredom. If a child is old enough, she can help decide which toys to put away and which to bring out.

These periodic switches offer you a good opportunity to examine the toys. If any parts are missing, write to the manufacturer for replacements. If any repairs are needed, do them. If the toy is damaged beyond repair, discard it or salvage whatever may be reusable. A "junk" box of old toy parts can be a treasure chest to an older child who likes to tinker with construction projects.

Never throw away a useable toy, even though you think a child has surely outgrown it. Children play with toys in different ways at different ages. A feature that might not have been evident originally may offer pleasure a year or two later.

A child who is sick in bed recovering from an illness often prefers a less challenging toy, one she has played with earlier. Besides, it's always good to have a selection of toys for younger children, whether visitors or your own. Save good toys; they may turn out to be another generation's treasures!

Next: Toys: Where to Keep Them.

Growing Child has a catalog of unique, educational toys, books and records for children up to six years old. To get a copy, send $1 to Catalog, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902.

"We're Not Falling Off A Cliff"

Home Sales And Construction "Peak"

By ROGER PYLE

Home sales and construction have hit their peak for the current recovery and have started to soften, but the industry "is not falling off a cliff," Dr. Jack Carlson, vice president and chief economist for the National Association of Realtors, said Thursday.

"I think essentially we will move sideways for 1984," said Carlson, in Oklahoma City for a meeting of the Oklahoma Association of Realtors.

"The economy will slow down in 1984 'as it must slow down.' It cannot continue booming as it has in the past."

"This is generally good news. However, it could be better news if we could have interest rates return to normal."

Carlson predicts an industry holding pattern because of high residential mortgage interest rates, now about 13 percent.

Despite the slowdown in inflation to an anticipated 3.5 percent for 1983, real interest rates - the difference between the rate quoted and the underlying inflation rate - are about double their historic level at a current 7 percent, Carlson said.

Inflationary expectations are partly to blame for the rates, he said. "Anytime you expect inflation to rise you would expect interest rates to rise. People are expecting some inflation and are demanding high rates of interest."

Carlson took exception to a recent statement by Treasury Secretary Donald Regan disputing the connection between interest rates and budget deficits. Carlson laid the most of the blame for high interest rates squarely on the record federal deficit.

Of the $500 billion of available credit, the federal government sops up $200 billion, leaving, leaving only $300 billion for housing and industry, Carlson said.

The administration and some in Congress think housing is taking too much credit at the expense of industry and have proposed shrinking the secondary mortgage markets, which provides the liquidity for much of the mortgage industry.

Carlson, however said, "It's the government taking a large amount of money that is shorting both housing and industry."

Carlson disagrees with the school that thinks the Federal Reserve will increase the money supply as a way to drop interest rates before the 1984 presidential election.

"I think the ability of the Federal Reserve to do that has diminished," Carlson said.

When the Federal Reserve let the money supply grow quickly in the first half of 1983, he said, the financial community reacted, feeding inflationary fears and keeping interest rates high.

"Until economic policy changes interest rates will be hardpressed to come down much," he said.

Despite the inability of the Reagan Administration and Congress to trim the deficit, Carlson remains optimistic it can be done.

"I do think rationality will come to government some time," he said. But he predicted the painful trimming won't come about until 1985 or 1986, after the 1984 elections.

"This is a lack of action on the part of incumbents. It is not a lack of action one party or another."

With the financial picture slowing down in 1984 and mortgages rates holding to the 13 to 14 percent range, Carlson predicts sales of existing houses will hit 2.65 million in 1984, down from 1983's 2.8 million but ahead of 1985's anticipated 2.5 million.

Stihl Invites Media

Two local television stations covered Stihl's consumer press conference recently in Virginia Beach. Here, Jack Guthrie, Stihl's manager of Marketing Services, provides background information to Lou Paris of WTKR, as Stihl's Director of Technical Services Phil Vollmer demonstrates the model 038 AVSE for the TV camera.

Editors from leading consumer and farm publications such as Popular Science, Southern Living and Outdoor Life, were shown through the various stages of assembly and quality control in Stihl's Manufacturing Plants I and II recently. "Our primary objective in sponsoring this kind of consumer press event is to make homeowners more aware of Stihl's complete line of consumer power products," said Jack Guthrie, the firm's manager of Marketing Services.

5th Annual Event UVB Golf Classic

The 5th annual United Virginia Bank Golf Classic has been rated as one of the top ten events on the LPGA Tour, UVB officials said today.

Nancy Wren, Tournament Chairman of the annual event held at Portsmouth Sleepy Hole Golf Course in Suffolk, announced the designation, made recently by officials of the Ladies Professional Golf Association in Sugarland, Texas,

The UVB event was one of 30 tournaments rated by the LPGA in terms of professional excellence.

"United Virginia Bank is pleased by the LPGA's evaluation of our tournament on two counts," Wren said. "Not only were we considered one of the top ten events in the country overall, but we also were ranked among the ten best in such important categories as course character, Pro Am, parking, and concessions. We're honored to be considered one of the best LPGA tournaments in the country."

The UVB Golf Classic was the only 54-hole event to make the Association's top ten list, which places the tournament in the company of such notable stops on the LPGA Tour as Corning, Mayflower, Mazda-Deep Creek and the Nabisco-Dinah Shore International.

SEARS SURPLUS OPENS

Barry Ziff, East Coast Territory manager for Sears Surplus stores congratulates John Libbon, manager Portsmouth Sears Surplus store for a successful grand opening.

Served By "Courier"

Metro Courier, the area's first radio-dispatched, computerized pickup and delivery service, began operating today.

The company focuses on deliveries within the greater Hampton Roads metropolitan area, including the cities of Norfolk, Portsmouth, Virginia Beach, Chesapeake, Hampton, Newport News and Williamsburg. Deliveries to points on the fringe of this immediate service area and to other parts of the country can be arranged.

A telephone call to Metro Courier's dispatcher activates one of 40 cars, vans, pickup trucks or motorcycles. The company guarantees pickup of materials in the immediate service area within 30 minutes, or the delivery is free. Delivery from one location to another is usually direct, and rush service is available at no extra charge.

Metro Courier has established numerous zones within the immediate service area, and charges are based on distance from the pickup zone to the delivery zone. Separate cost schedules have been created for each zone so a customer will have a clear understanding of the charges for deliveries from one location to all other locations.

The basic charge includes delivery of any item up to 50 pounds. The delivery charge is the same whether the material is a single document, a box of file folders, or 50 pounds of books. Metro Courier will deliver up to 150 pounds of material at varying rates, and even heavier shipments by advance arrangement.

"We can deliver almost anything," said John C. Ford, general manager of Metro Courier, "but we're really not a moving company. We're a courier service. Our primary markets will be professionals and service organizations."

"For example, we can quickly and safely deliver contracts, letters and briefs for lawyers. We might be delivering x-rays and medical records for physicians. I think the service will be useful to advertisers and advertising agencies, printers and the like. But there are many other businesses that might need our service too," Ford said.

Metro Courier operates 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. There is no extra charge for service outside regular business hours. The individual couriers are bonded and carry photograph identification cards.

The company offers corporate charge accounts and computerized monthly statements detailing deliveries by date and ticket number, origin and destination, any excess weight on the delivery items, any waiting time by the courier, and the charge per delivery. Multiple accounts within a single corporate charge account can also be arranged.

Headquartered in Norfolk, Metro Courier employs 20 people. Employment is expected to increase to about 100 people within six months, according to Ford, who was formerly with Allstate Courier Service in the Washington, D.C. area. Metro Courier's operations manager is Charles Flaghty, who has experience with a courier service in Texas.

Metro Realty "Tops"

Arby Named For SYNTEC

Arby Construction Enterprises, Virginia Beach, VA, has been named exclusive representative for a revolutionary, new commercial roofing system manufactured by Carlisle SynTec Systems.

Formally designated M.A.R.S. Design NP (for Mechanically Attached Roofing System - Non-Penetrating), it is the first such system available in America that doesn't require fasteners that penetrate -- and thus compromise the watertightness of -- the roofing membrane. Heart of the system are Carlisle's exclusive non-penetrating membrane anchors consisting of a knobbed base plate, threaded retainer clip and cover cap.

Carlisle SynTec Systems is the company that pioneered the "single-ply" revolution in American commercial and industrial roofing over the past five years which have been single-ply capture nearly 40 percent of the market.

Single-ply roofing is, in fact, one of the fastest growing new industries in the United States and, Carlisle is the market leader and largest manufacturer of such systems.

Speery Opens New Facility

Speery Corporation, a multi-national $5 billion organization with worldwide facilities, has just completed the consolidation of many of its activities in the Tidewater area into a single facility in Virginia Beach. Speery's employment worldwide approaches nearly 100,000 employees, and the Tidewater area accounts for approximately 500 of them. Virginia, overall, is host to nearly 5,000 Speery employees from the various divisions such as Speery Computer Systems, Speery New Holland Corporate, Speery Vickers, Speery Flight Systems, and Speery Electronic Systems. The new Virginia Beach facility primarily supports Speery's Computer Systems Division. Approximately 150 of the employees in the new facility are performing computer hardware maintenance, while an additional 120 are performing software development and maintenance work. Speery's Computer Systems Marketing Organization and a number of professionals representing Speery's Electronic Systems Division are also co-located in the new facility at 600 Lynnhaven Parkway.

Speery has been in the Tidewater area for many years although the organizations were formerly known by names as Speery Rand, Remington Rand, Speery Cyro, and Speery Univac. Last year, Speery eliminated these secondary names and the entire worldwide organization is now known as the Speery Corporation. The Company's motto is: "We understand how important it is to listen."

The new facility is located at 600 Lynnhaven Parkway in Armada/Hoffler's Parkway West Complex. This newly constructed brick and glass building is approximately 52,000 square feet and Speery occupies a large portion, with plans to expand to fill the entire building in the near future. The project was designed and constructed by the Armada/Hoffler. Construction Company at a cost in excess of $3 million. Numerous computer terminals connect the various Speery sub-organizations here with their respective division and corporate headquarters operations throughout the United States and Canada. Additionally, a Speery System 80 computer is installed, as well as sophisticated test and maintenance equipment for maintaining Speery-developed products. Prior to relocation to this new facility, the Technical Services Division was located in Virginia Beach was located in Pembroke Office Park.

Recently, Speery has been successful in winning a number of defense contracts for commercial and militarized computers, many of which will be installed on ships, aircrafts, submarines, and virtually all military activities in the Tidewater area. Speery has been the manufacturer of the Navy's standard military computers for over 25 years. They have also recently been named the manufacturer of the Air Force's standard commercial computers -- the result of a major competitive award. Speery offices expect a high growth rate in the general Tidewater area over the next several years with a significant increase in the number of job opportunities for computer related occupations.

Luther's Bar-B-Que Restaurants' entrees include sliced beef, link sausage, pork ribs and chicken. These come with a choice of barbecue baked beans, cole slaw, potato salad or corn muffins. Luther's uses only fresh, natural products which are prepared daily to ensure the quality of each meal.

Luther's Bar-B-Que Offers "Down-Home" Fare

Real down-home style barbecue is now available in Virginia Beach. The Grand Opening of Luther's Bar-B-Que restaurant at 808 Lynnhaven Parkway on December 13 brings residents a special kind of country cooking, originally made famous in Houston, Texas.

Luther's barbecue began in 1975 with the first Houston restaurant, founded on pit cooked barbecue. Pit barbecuing is the secret to Luther's tender, succulent meats. Luther's slow cooks them at low, carefully controlled temperatures in pits fired with real hickory, oak and pecan woods. The pit room is openly displayed behind large glass windows.

Luther's restaurants serve both barbecue and hamburgers, made of the freshest ingredients. Portions are plentiful and meal prices are moderately low. Food is individually prepared to order and barbecue lovers select from a variety of sandwiches, dinners and associated side orders.

Beef products are prepared on premises from fresh brisket, typically smoked in the pits at low temperature for over 16 hours. Other meat products require less cooking at higher temperatures in Luther's pit ovens.

Entrees include sliced beef, link sausage, pork ribs, pork and chicken. Sandwich offerings are sliced beef, chopped beef, chopped pork and sliced link sausage. All are generously ladled with Luther's special secret barbecue sauce. Single, double meat, cheese and western chili hamburgers are available, cooked on a genuine steel griddle. Drive-thru service is available for all menu items.

New menu items recently introduced include pork sandwiches, brunswick stew and cornbread.

The Lynnhaven Parkway restaurant will employ about 35 employees, coming from the local work force. The store manager is John Imbert, an area resident. He says, "We're very pleased to bring Luther's special kind of barbecue to Virginia Beach. We are a restaurant concept, founded on a friendly atmosphere, good, plentiful food and attentive service. We look forward to becoming a significant member of this community."

Currently, there are 38 Luther's Bar-B-Que restaurants located in 11 states. An ambitious expansion program will add another 102 restaurants, covering 32 states by the end of 1984.

FINE HOLIDAY DINING

Just Like Home Cookin'

You've just pushed yourself away from the table for the third time, (and this time you mean it, because there is no way you can down another morsel of food or sip of coffee), and you're waiting (not too long) for the check, the penalty one pays for such a feast! Out of the corner of your eye you see her floating your way...and, would you look at that, she's smiling!! "Can't butter me up with sweetness now, anyhow, I'm braced for the worst," you think to yourself. Imagine your surprise, (nay, shock) when your eyes peruse a $5.95 check, the "penalty" for a large crisp and fresh salad followed by a monstrous baked potato brimming with butter and sour cream and an entree of one of the best filet mignon's you've ever had. The pleasant and super-fast service, at-home atmosphere, and friendly conversation didn't hurt either.

You've just had a typical family-style meal at Josy Family Steak House where five-star food at near fast food prices is the "order of the day." Conveniently located across from Janaf Shopping Center on Military Highway, Chesapeake, Norfolk, Virginia Beach and Portsmouth residents can reach it by interstate in 5 to 20 minutes.

Former Popeye Restaurants operations manager, Stan Koushel, and wife Josy, have created exactly what they set out to do many months ago, that is, "create a truly good affordable restaurant where a family can go and have a good meal at reasonable prices," said Stan recently. "One reason I bought this restaurant was to provide a place a whole family, civic, church, or business organization. Everything is made fresh at the restaurant, including desserts and salads.

In addition to a full dinner menu, the restaurant opens for breakfast and lunch with prices that rival fast food operations. A complete lunch can be enjoyed for about $3.00.

So, if you are looking for a great family restaurant where portions or quality are not sacrificed to create a phony "low price", look no further... head to Josy.

Josy Family Steak House is located on Military Highway in Norfolk across from Janaf Shopping Center.

Last Chance Cafe

"A Little Different"

When Carl Chiarenza opened the Last Chance Cafe in Greenbrier Mall two months ago, he realized he needed to offer something a little different. He started offering entertainment—specifically acoustical guitar with a rotating variety of players.

"I'm from Virginia Beach and there is a lot of it there. But you don't see much in Chesapeake. So I started off with entertainment immediately." "We're really got good response. Ron Wilson and Jeff Phillips, who have a local following, are our 'mainliners,' but we rotate them with other musicians."

Chiarenza found that his cafe, which offers omelettes, burgers, Barbeque and ribs as well as nightly dinner specials, had too much of a relaxed atmosphere to attract shoppers in a hurry.

The live entertainment is providing him with the right blend of atmosphere and a strong drawing card for repeat customers.

"The performers are developing a substantial following. The music has really got us into the community. Whatever trade we've got we have to develop ourselves."

"Now people come for food, fun, drinks and music. They're not coming to shop in the mall. Our happy hours also help."

"Chiarenza is also going to feature noon and dinner-hour fashion shows at the Last Chance Cafe, which is located at the main entrance to Greenbrier Mall.

Flood Plains

Chamber of Commerce had recommended a delay pending more engineering studies.

Councilman John A. Baum said that the Chamber's view was short ranged.

Jones said he was concerned with the way developers create monumental expenses to the city.

Baum said the object is to protect the natural floodways.

Muehlenbeck said the cost to maintain man-made canals and drainage ways would be one million dollars a year, not taking into consideration new infrastructures needed.

Ray Le Senne charged that Virginia Beach suffers from a lack of a long-range plan. He said the planning is being done by developers with the blessing of the city and the taxpayers pay for it.

He said that roads are obsolete before they are completed and while Pembroke is referred to as the "downtown" of Virginia Beach, there is no good road connection between Pembroke and the Civic Center in Princess Anne.

Le Senne, who supported the ordinances, said that time and time again he has heard developers say that their construction will expand the tax base.

If the tax base is so broad why do we need to borrow money? He asked that developers say their projects will reduce the need for schools because "their projects are for sterile couples but residents are increasing the birth rate."

He said the PDH-2 zoning classification has led to cheaper houses, high density and less open spaces. If the city had open spaces, he said, it would not be faced with the Kempsville Golf Course problem.

He said the ordinances would prevent happening in the southern end of the city what has happened in the north. He said that the Task Force is dilly-dallying for more studies and the Planning Commission made no recommendation. They want to wait until developers get their site plans in, he said.

He said that the composition of council, which also was discussed Monday, does not need to be changed but the Council should face the problems. He said the city should impose a moratorium as suggested by Robert Jones and stop development in the flood plains until the Planning Commission study is completed. Jones had suggested a moratorium on site plan approval, but in connection with the uncertainty over a water supply.

Ronald Hancock was satisfied with the approved amendments which provided for filling in for septic tanks.

Maxine Graham, of Sandbridge, opposed approval of the ordinances. She said that standing water was not a problem in Sandbridge.

"Just drop the issue when you don't have (Lake) Gaston and other things to deal with," she said.

Councilman W.H. Kitchin III said that the many years ago, the people in Sandbridge built on marginal land and he reminded Graham that she had earlier talked about problems with septic tanks. Now the taxpayers will have to pay the price, he said.

Graham said that the clay soil, not the elevation, and beach erosion is the problem. "Our problems are not self-manifested. A lot of buyers did not know they were man-made lots. We're not getting any money for erosion." "I still say you built on land that shouldn't have been built there." He said this would not have happened if the city had the flood plain regulations years ago.

"We're not trying to do anything to anybody,"

Councilman John A. Baum said. "If we continue to fill the canals, he said, the study will be like an autopsy."

He said that the land in the North Landing system is mostly swamp and marsh, not fit to farm. If it's too low to farm, it has no value to the developer, he said.

Council expects to receive a report on a study being made by the U.S. Corps of Engineers in February.

Baum said some Sandbridge developers ignored the natural hazards and developed the marsh. Land there is two to three feet above sea level.

Read Me A Story

Field. Poetry is a particularly good choice for soothing a restless child and a collection like Stevenson's "A Child's Garden of Verses" can come in handy. Lullabies are, of course, ideal, and many like Zemach's "Hush Little Baby," are available as picture books. For children that want to enjoy the story alone or tell themselves Ormerod's "Moonlight" is perfect. Without any words, the pictures tell the daily routine of getting ready for bed.

Stock up on stories, especially if you will have children visiting this month. After hectic holiday preparations you, too, are going to enjoy a quiet storytime. This year December is Virginia Reading Month.

Pops At The Pavilion

The Virginia Pops will feature conductor Sheldon Cohen and Portsmouth native Tommy Newsom playing saxophone, Sunday, Dec. 18 at 2:30 p.m. in the Virginia Beach's Pavilion.

Jaycees Seek Outstanding People

Grandeur Than The Gold - Skip Wilkins

Two-Time Local And Once State OY Recipient Says Public Service Means More Than Winning Gold Medals

National Award Still Eludes Wilkins: Will Speak On Jan. 5 At Tandom's

By Greg Goldfarb
Editor

"I remember distinctly the thrill of it," said Alfred T. "Skip" Wilkins. "It was the first award that I ever received after the accident."

In 1967, just three short days after Wilkins' graduation from high school, a tragic waterskiing accident left him a quadriplegic, dashing his promising athletic career and confining him to a wheelchair forever. The accident divorced Wilkins from the use of his legs, but through increasing his upper body strength Wilkins in 1974 began competing in wheelchair sports and is now recognized as one of the best wheelchair athletes in the world.

"The athletics played such a key role in my life. But what I do now daily is grander than any gold medal I've ever won." - Gold Medalist Skip Wilkins

But the going wasn't easy. It took a lot of help and encouragement from his family and friends, including Bill Taylor and Peter Marx who in 1977 nominated Wilkins as the Virginia Beach Jaycees' Outstanding Young Man. The award is given, along with others, to deserving members of the local community between the ages of 18 and 35. Wilkins received the honor and it proved to be a turning point in Wilkins' career.

"I had won some medals for athletic competition," Wilkins, 33, recalls. "You see, in 1977 I was just coming into my own. The thrill for me was first, that somebody would recognize the efforts that I was trying to contribute; not only in the athletic world but to the community.

Secondly, I got to thank my family and friends for their efforts in helping me," Wilkins continued. "One thing for sure, anyone who's outstanding doesn't do it alone."

The following year, 1978, Wilkins was nominated by the Jaycees as the Outstanding Young Man.

Nominations are being accepted in the following categories: outstanding young man, woman, religious leader, educator, firefighter, law enforcement officer, rescue squad member, farmer and boss.

Nominees should live and work in Virginia Beach and have demonstrated exemplary civic efforts on behalf of the Virginia Beach community. Nominees must be between the ages of 18 and 35, not reaching their 36th birthday before Jan. 5. Nomination letters must be postmarked no later than Friday, Dec. 23.

Winners will receive plaques and become eligible for state and national non-categorical competition. Past outstanding young man recipients are world class handicapped athlete Skip Wilkins and former assistant to the city manager, Sam Clay.

Mail nomination letters to Greg Goldfarb, 138 South Rosemont Road, Suite 220, Virginia Beach, VA, 23452. For more information call 486-3430.

Tandom's is located at 2932 Virginia Beach Boulevard.

Wilkins Featured Speaker At OY Night

Skip Wilkins will be the featured speaker at the Virginia Beach Jaycees' Outstanding Young Virginians Recognition Night, to be held on Thursday, Jan. 5 at 7 p.m. at Tandom's on Virginia Beach Boulevard.

Wilkins, a former two-time recipient of the OY award and also recipient of the Jaycees' Outstanding Young Man of Virginia award, suffered a tragic water skiing accident in 1967 three days after high school graduation, leaving him a quadriplegic. The accident ended a promising athletic career and confined him to a wheelchair for the rest of his life.

Wilkins began competing in wheelchair sports in 1974 and is today recognized as one of the best in the world. He has been selected eight times to the U.S. Wheelchair Team competing throughout the world in International, Pan American, and Paralympic events. In his class he holds national records for the field events-shotput, discus and javelin. He also holds Pan American records in shotput in discus. He is seeded number one in the country in table tennis.

Wilkins, who will continue to compete in athletics next year has received the Jack Gerhardt Award honoring him as one of the nation's Athlete of the Year in wheelchair sports. He has been also been recognized as Athlete of the Week on NBC TV's Today Show.

Paragas Crowned Miss Philippines

By FRED L. LINGAD

Miss Melody Paragas, 17, of Virginia Beach, has been crowned Miss Philippines 1984 during a pageant held recently at the Virginia Beach Dome. She was crowned by Miss Philippines 1983, Annette Sadsad.

Miss Paragas is the daughter of Aberardo and Virginia Paragas, the third of five children. Through high school years, she has participated in numerous extracurricular activities which include playing flute in band and membership in French club and Science club.

She has been very active in the Filipino community as well, being a member of the United Ilocano Youth Association of Tidewater, as member of the Filipino Women's club of Tidewater's Youth Auxiliary. Among her activities are playing the piano, dancing, modeling, skating and playing tennis. Melody's career goal is to attend college to finish her studies and go into psychology or possibly another social science.

The selection of the Miss Philippines 1984 and Her Court was preceded by a presentation of an extravaganza of culture, entitled "East meets West." Miss Paragas' Court included: Miss Visayas-Miss Tessie Almuet Antolin; Miss Luzon-Miss Jane N. Fiesta; Miss Mindanao-Miss Gina Rene Gose and Miss Sampa-guita-Miss Connie Honrada. Emcee of the program was Dr. Aleli G. Romero and emcees of the pageantry were Robert Economu and Becky Washburn.

Sponsor of the 8th Miss Philippines 1984 was the Filipino Women's Club of Tidewater headed by its president, Ms Joan C. Mullen. Proceeds of this affair go to the Cultural Center, to the underprivileged, the sick, and the needy citizens of Tidewater.

Special guests invited were from the military, local, state and national governments headed by Congressman William Whitehurst.

Recognition

Sometimes people don't make much ado over recognition awards. But if anyone ever doubted the impact of being named "outstanding" in a particular field, or for particular efforts, just ask Skip Wilkins.

The first time he was recognized by the Virginia Beach Jaycees as the city's Outstanding Young Man it meant much to Wilkins. It was his first significant award he had won outside athletics.

The second time he won the award, one would think that it wouldn't mean as much. But it did.

"That was a very critical time for me in that my book (The Real Race) was coming out," he remembers. "My step into my own company was coming about then. The award served as a great encouragement to me, that some one from this community would nominate me and that the Jaycees would recognize more of a contribution in a different light. That was very significant. It was a great boost and a great encouragement to me."

Need more be said?

The Virginia Beach Jaycees currently accepting letters of nominations in various categories, for this year's Outstanding Young Virginians Recognition Night. (See story, page 1). It is the holiday season, people are busy, but certainly one should take time to nominate someone outstanding to who you may know.

It doesn't cost anything to nominate anyone, but the personal satisfaction could be priceless.

Philippines' Pageant

The Filipino Woman's Club of Tidewater, Inc. recently held its 1984 Miss Philippines pageant and ball at the Dome. It was a grand affair.

Music, dance and food permeated the event which was festive, colorful and full of good will. City and state officials, including State Senator-elect Clarence Holland, U.S. Congressman William Whitehurst, Virginia Beach Mayor Louis Jones and City Manager Thomas Muehlenbeck were among the attendees invited by the Filipinos to be part of their community.

The most important aspect of the pageant is that it is run and performed almost exclusively by young people. The five contestants for the crown represented "the pride and joy of the Filipino community," and the love and devotion between the youngsters and their families was apparent.

Congratulations to all those who produced the pageant and ball, and to the winner. The Filipino community carries its heritage with pride and dignity and is certainly a prized element in Virginia Beach's population.

Water

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers have again determined that Virginia Beach's proposed Lake Gaston Project will pose no significant impact "on the quality of the human environment." It is the realization that had been predicted all along.

If all goes well, Virginia Beach residents as well as several of its municipal neighbors will be sipping water from the lake picture above. The Corps' approval amounts to what observers describe as a major victory in the city's plan to build a pipeline and draw the water. North Carolina still objects to the move, but the engineers made the logical decision.

POW

Virginia Beach has the lowest crime rate for a city its size compared to all other cities in the nation. Virginia Beach is the home of the world's largest cable network. The home of the world's foremost parapsychology foundation. The home some of the nation's most sophisticated police communications system.

It is also the home of the first prisoner of war since Viet Nam: U.S. Navy bombardier-navigator, Robert O. Goodman, 26. Reports are that Goodman is being "well-treated" by the Syrians. But a POW being well treated seems like a contradiction of terms. Hopefully, he will be returned soon.

Correction

In last week's editorial entitled "Reduce," it indicated there was sentiment afoot to reduce city council size from 11 to seven. That should have been, 11 to nine.

Reagan Had The Courage

Editor, The Virginia Beach Sun:

It is patently unfair to associate President Reagan with cuts in Social Security without taking into consideration that the delay in the Cost of Living and other adjustments are more than compensated by the reduction in the runaway inflation rates which existed at the beginning of this administration. The real question is not how many dollars you receive but how many necessities of life and goods your dollar will buy.

Give me fewer extra dollars if I can buy more of what I need.

Now that unemployment rates have been lowered and inflation rates have been brought down considerably it is interesting to note that the dire predictions of where Reaganomics would lead us by now have been forgotten and are never mentioned by the gurus of television and the media. As a matter of fact they don't want to use the word Reaganomics anymore!

The predictors were wrong, but rather than acknowledge this they now find fault without foundation. Reagan had the courage to call the shots as they are...and it was high time!

Undo An Error

Editor, The Virginia Beach Sun:

Twenty years ago, we let the railroads sneak a selfish piece of legislation through our General Assembly prohibiting the use of eminent domain for coal pipelines only. As a result, all Virginians are paying for unbridled, empire building by the railroads.

Merely repealing the law which prohibits the use of eminent domain by a pipeline will only do one thing to the railroads. It will make them compete to transport Virginia's coal to Virginia's ports.

In spite of all the huffing and puffing by the railroads, the facts about a Virginia coal slurry pipeline are coming out. The General Assembly's consultant just reported that a pipeline will create jobs for Virginians, operate in an environmentally sound manner, and save money for utility customers.

Recently, competition from a pipeline that had not even been built saved utility customers in Arkansas some $16 billion over the next 30 years. The railroads got that contract by underbidding a pipeline for service to Arkansas Power & Light.

So what's wrong with a little competition? Nothing. But railroads are going to any expense to protect their monopoly on coal transportation in Virginia and to keep consumers from the savings generated by competition.

I hope we can help our General Assembly undo an error made 20 years ago so that all Virginians from coal miners, to dock workers, and consumers can realize the savings that come with competition.

Barbara Bitters,
Vice President,
Virginia Citizens Consumer Council, Inc.,
Richmond, Va.

Blame Yourselves

Editor, The Virginia Beach Sun:

So many people seem to be grumbling about the recent local election results, the power-hungry Democratic fraternity in Richmond and the deceptive use of Chuck-PAC funds.

But the strange irony is that only 42 percent of the approximately 100,000 Beach registered voters participated and out of a grand voter potential approaching 250 thousand.

The results reflect a victory for the minority of the populace. For example, the victor in the 7th District Senate contest received a majority of total votes cast in just 5 of 23 district precincts, a mere 9,000 of roughly 23,000 ballots cast in the three-way race. Extrapolate the figures further and one arrives at an actual meager representation in the General Assembly.

The government is of the people, by the people, for the people - but only for those people who participate in the democratic process.

Those who failed to vote have only themselves to blame for the election results.

L.R. Steenburgh, Fairfield,

Off The Record

By Greg Goldfarb

Who Likes To Be Censored?

"Why are you so venomous?" White House Deputy Press Secretary Larry Speakes asked ABC News' Sam Donaldson on his persistent questioning over the Press shutout during the Grenada invasion.

"I'm not venomous," Donaldson hissed, "but you're covering up an operation against another nation involving American troops and not allowing reporters there to see what's happening."

Speakes soon became touchy. As reporters shouted questions and cheered Donaldson, Speakes pleaded for "a little civility," according to the newspaper industry's trade publication, Editor and Publisher. He asked reporters to stop "yelling at me." One reporter replied, "Don't censor us in here." Another said, "Just tolerate the stonewalling?"

Speakes wrote a letter to his superiors protesting about being kept in the dark about the planned invasion. His credibility had been so damaged, reports say, that he considered resigning his post. Later, he did not acknowledge that.

Finally, the media was allowed on the island. No longer could the press or the public accept the government's version of the events.

"The media's there and the first story out of there last night was just as wrong as heck," Speakes said, referring to an United Press International story on the fighting. Of course, UPI as well as other reporters defended the story.

But a CBS correspondent summed up the situation quite neatly.

"This system is about a right to be wrong and the right to observe it for ourselves and be wrong. We don't guarantee accuracy, but you should guarantee access."

The discussions were getting heated.

CBS' Leslie Stahl really got under Speakes' skin when she interrupted him to question the number of Cubans in Grenada. Speakes said to her, "I've had about enough of you...I'm sick and tired of you. I am sick and tired of you. I am sick and tired of you...Don't interrupt me."

There are several points to be raised. First, why does the Administration confuse ineptiveness with vindictiveness? No one, most of all reporters, likes to be censored.

The Administration kept the press off the island under the guise of personal protection which has never been an issue before. Why now? Unless there is something to hide; unless there is real concern for the reporters which one doubts, considering the source; or unless they thought the reporting would be inaccurate, which is absurd.

The Administration began building a wall around public information and freedom of speech when it attempted to impose restrictions on what public servants, after public service, may publicly print. Not only is this unconstitutional, but

The Tree In Lights

Virginia Beach Mayor Louis Jones recently lit the city's official Christmas tree, located beside the observation area atop Mount Trashmore. The tree is a seven-year-old Virginia Red Cedar, worth about $300 and donated to the city in 1976 by the Cape Henry Women's Club. The tree is strung with between 220 and 230 feet of seven watt holiday lights. The tree is also spotlighted by four, colored outdoor flood lights. The tree, sometimes called a Juniper, is 10 foot wide and 20 foot tall. During the tree lighting ceremony, the Virginia Beach Tuba Choir and the First Colonial High School Madrigals performed. The Candy Cane Express was also present. The tree is maintained by the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation.

it will keep many scholars out of public service if after the service is through, they can never tell it.

What amazes journalists, is the lack of public reaction to the press blackout in Grenada. There's no way they can allow to only be told what's happening. That's why a reporter is what he or she is. They must hear it or see it for themselves.

Windows: The Focal Point

Mini Blinds Are Romantic

People often forget that windows are usually the focal point of a room.

Change the window covering, says the U.S. Venetian Blind Association, and you've changed the room. With miniblinds, a homeowner can create an entirely different mood at very reasonable cost.

Mini blinds are romantic. Gold mini blinds, used in a bedroom with wicker furniture and a brass bed, can create the aura of the Orient.

Mini blinds are cheerful. Why not put bright yellow blinds on your kitchen windows? Paint the walls a lighter yellow and try a dark yellow floor covering. You'll have created an inviting kitchen to work in.

Mini blinds are casual. In a den or family room, install wood or wood-like mini blinds. They will provide a neutral, yet warm background for the room containing your old living room sofa, chairs that may not be a perfect match, the TV set and children's games. Because wood goes with anything, as you change your family room furniture, you won't have to change the blinds unless you want to.

Mini blinds are sophisticated. Try putting black blinds in an all white room. Add white or off-white curtains to contrast with the blinds and repeat the combination with black pillows used on white chairs or couch. Hang an art deco mirror on the wall and you have an elegant room evoking the drama of the '30's.

Available in over 100 decorator colors, plus wood and woodlike materials, mini blinds can go with any decorating style. A single blind in color, so all sorts of striking designs are possible—the only limit is the buyer's imagination.

Larasan Picked

B.B.N.

Chesapeake Has New Satellite Station

Bible Broadcasting Network, headquartered in Chesapeake, Virginia, is Tidewater's newest entry into satellite broadcasting. On October 24, 1983, BBN began test broadcasting from its studios at 1300 N. Battlefield Boulevard and expects to move into full-time operation in December.

BBN was founded 12 years ago. Mr. Lowell Davey, who is now President of the non-profit corporation said, "At that time we purchased the then off the air WYFI-FM radio station and began broadcasting a non-commercial format of Bible teaching programs and conservative Christian music."

Because listener response was so great, BBN has purchased five more radio stations in major markets on the East Coast.

"We have had many requests from all over America asking us to bring our type of radio to their area. Until the very latest developments in satellite technology, we just could not do it. Now, if they have access to cable or a station that will rebroadcast our programming, they can have access to BBN," said Lowell Davey.

The format of non-commercial conservative Christian music that will be broadcast via satellite is the same format currently used on WYFI-FM locally and by the other stations in the network.

Western Union's Western III is the satellite being used by BBN and Satellite Systems of Virginia Beach is the supplier of the uplink and downlink equipment.

"This represents a major investment for BBN," said Business Manager, Keith Wohlenhaus, "but the potential for expanding our audience and ministry is incredible. We have installed nationwide watts lines in a 24-hour a day counseling center in anticipation of the expanded outreach." He also commented that during some of the testing it became obvious that more phone lines will be needed because of the response from listeners.

The BBN slogan is, "Giving the Winds the Bible Voice." The Bible is what made America great, and its greatness will diminish or excel in direct relation to this book," said WYFI station manager, Hank Crull.

Drunk Driving Perils

During this holiday season, Tidewater drivers will be reminded about the perils of drunk driving through a series of radio commercials distributed to area stations.

Lillian DeVenny, chairwoman of the Tidewater Regional Task Force on Drunk Driving, said that a series of four dramatic commercials has been produced by Redmond, Amundson & Rice Advertising Agency in cooperation with local talent and Studio Center Corporation, a recording studio. All services and air time are donated free of charge.

In addition, many local firms have paid for commercial air time to help get the message across. Mrs. DeVenny said, "At this time of the year, many radio stations sell out their best air time early, so public service requests are hard to fill. These regular advertisers are paying for the best times available, in order to bring the problem to the attention of the public."

Harvey Lindsay And Co.

"Kempsville Crossing" Coming

Bonney's Corner Associates has announced the completion of the first phase of a proposed $20 million development for the 50-acre tract at the intersection of Kempsville and Indian River Roads in Virginia Beach. The mixed-use commercial project has been named Kempsville Crossing.

The complex is to include a community-size shopping center of approximately 200,000 square feet. It will include a supermarket, a major general merchandise discount retailer, a department store, drug store, home improvement center and several small stores. Harvey Lindsay and Company will serve as the developer and leasing and management agent for the project.

In making the announcement, Marshall Findley, vice president in charge of development with Harvey Lindsay and Company, said the first phase of the development involved the construction of a pumping station, the installation of sewer and water lines, drainage outfalls and the completion of the connector road between Kempsville and Indian River Roads and the loop road to serve the project. The total cost of this first phase was in excess of $1.5 million.

Richard C. Burroughs, vice president in charge of retail store leasing for Harvey Lindsay and Company, stated that construction on the shopping center should commence in the late spring of 1984, with a scheduled opening of August 1985. Plans for the Kempsville Crossing development include the sale and/or lease and improvement of several sites for fast-food and family-style restaurants, freestanding shops, offices (both commercial and professional), theatres, entertainment facilities, and others.

A marketing study by the Gladstone Associates, a Washington, D.C. economic consulting firm, revealed the need for a community-size shopping center in this location, Burroughs reported.

"There are over 40,000 people living within a 5-minute drive of the new Kempsville Crossing development," said Burroughs. "The Kempsville area has experienced a growth rate of 37 percent per year since 1978. We plan to have a fine, full-service shopping and commercial center to serve their needs at this convenient location."

Folding wood doors combining louvers and panels brighten up household interiors.

"The Sky's The Limit"

"The sky's the limit" Creative homeowners kind of positive thinking is an American trait. Yet many ignore it when it comes to remodeling their homes. They opt instead for what's old and familiar rather than branching out and exploring their own creativity.

But, the sky really is the limit, in more ways than one, says APC Corp., of Hawthorne, N.J., a leading manufacturer of skylights. Decorating with skylights can give any home an up-to-date look. Skylights make a room look larger at a fraction of the cost of remodeling.

have installed skylights in kitchens and dining rooms so the family can enjoy lots of natural light during the day or eat under the stars at night. Others have transformed unused attics into dramatic lofts with several skylights used in a row.

Skylights are as functional as they are attractive. APC skylights are available in clear, diffusing white or bronze acrylic. They fill a room with sunshine during the day, reducing reliance on artificial lighting.

Market To Set Interest Rates

According to the National Association of Home Builders, the financial markets—not the Secretary of HUD—will set the interest rate on FHA insured mortgages from here on out under a provision in the 1983 housing bill, which cleared the Congress on Nov. 18.

The elimination of the FHA interest rate ceiling was sought by the Reagan Administration. Rates in the future will be arrived at by what is called the "negotiation" process between lender and borrower. The negotiation is supposed to parallel market practices and minimize "points" associated with current FHA transactions.

The ceiling for VA guaranteed loans will be retained.

In future, the rate on FHA insured loans will be determined by the market, as is now the case with conventional mortgages. The change is expected to apply to commitments dated after Dec. 1, 1983.

Jackson, Lee Birthday's Celebrated

Virginia leads off its 1984 events in January with the birthday celebrations of Confederate generals Stonewall Jackson and Robert E. Lee, and a gun show featuring more than 200 exhibits, including Civil War items.

The scenic Shenandoah Valley city of Lexington will commemorate the birthday of Thomas Jonathan "Stonewall" Jackson, professor of Virginia Military Institute and Civil War general, on January 21. Visitors will be treated to refreshments and a free tour of the Stonewall Jackson House — the only home the general ever owned. Furnishings include Jackson's personal belongings, his furniture and old prints—one of the largest Jackson collections in the country. Jackson left Lexington in 1861 to serve as a Confederate general; he died of pneumonia after being wounded at the battle of Chancellorsville in 1863 at age 39, and his body was returned to Lexington by barge. Both he and Confederate General Robert E. Lee are buried in Lexington.

A Rare Breed

By RIP COARD

It has been rare, indeed over the years when anyone surprised me with the return of an overpayment, that unwittingly, I had paid on some prior date. It happened last week as my wife and I, in the pursuit of some real bargains, stopped once again at one of our favorite "treasure seeking" places in Portsmouth. The name painted on one side of the building rather - generically, Flea Market, in bold black lettering. Outside are "someone else's trash," and, as the saying goes, possibly the "treasure" we're diligently searching for. Inside are endless rows of new and used merchandise, from the ridiculous to the sublime, and we are in "hog heaven" as we scan the shelves for hidden bargains (and Christmas ornaments, the object of our search this week).

As I walk by the cashiers counter, I am paged by the owner, Mr. Roy DeArmond, six foot plus ex-trucker with an eye for a deal and a friendly grin. He motions for me to come to the register, and much to my surprise, hands me six dollars and eighty four cents (exactly), and then, in great detail, as his son Roy Jr. and the son's wife look on, beaming, the brightest (and proudest) smiles I've ever seen. Mr. Roy DeArmond Sr. tells me I paid too much for some merchandise almost a month ago and he tells me he's been saving the cash and a copy of the receipt just in case I ever came back.

Now, we'd only been there twice before, and neither of us knew the other, but I would like to think that had I been Roy, I would have done the same thing, but I wonder would I have taken the time? Would I have bothered to "check the receipt" after the customer left just to "make sure both were treated fairly" as Roy Sr. said he frequently does? In this day and time, most people would have marked it up to, "oh, well, too much trouble to mess with," or, "ah, seven thousand percent profit on a 20 dollar purchase!" But, not honest Roy.

Oh, yes—we found all kinds of beautiful, (and cheap), Christmas ornaments too.

Did I check the bill on the way out? No way! I'm in good hands with Roy DeArmond.

Incidentally, he's located on George Washington Highway in Portsmouth, just around the corner from Victory Blvd. Stop by, and tell him Rip said Hi!

Is Christmas Hazardous To Your Health?

Is Christmas hazardous to your mental health? While many people think so, statistics do not bear them out reports the December Reader's Digest. In fact, the number of suicides, psychiatric hospitalizations and even letters to advice columns is relatively low during December. Among the positive psychological effects of Christmas is the support from friends and relatives, and the increased sense of hope that prevails during the season.

There really is a way to cut through red tape! Virtually all U.S. Representatives and Senators run social-service operations to help constituents snarled in bureaucratic tangles, according to the December Reader's Digest. Without charge and regardless of the constituent's political affiliation, they will act on such problems as missing Social Security checks, errant passport and visa applications, the plight of U.S. citizens in foreign jails and much more.

More people are picking up their cross-country skiing; four-fifths of them opened between 1970 and 1980.

Babies know a lot more than people think they do, the December Reader's Digest reports. They're prewired to make friends; enjoy complex visual patterns and can organize sounds into categories. They almost never, for instance, imitate a dog; they will imitate human voices.

If you're feeling depressed, exercise! It doesn't cost a cent and is a proven mood elevator, says the December Reader's Digest. It changes the level of hormones in the blood and may also improve the autonomic nervous system. Besides, just doing something about the blues is beneficial.

Dazzling Diamonds Glittering Gold

Diamonds are showing up as settings in watches, rings, necklaces and many other jewelry pieces this holiday season.

Now's the time when many people set out to capture that seasonal sparkle by buying something for all seasons: dazzling diamonds, glittery gold and other spectacular gems. More jewelry, particularly diamonds, is acquired during December than in the other 11 months combined, according to a survey of professional jewelers.

With a truly brilliant array of jewelry gifts to choose from this year, you don't have to be wealthy to make this Christmas special, say experts.

If you're stumped when it comes to deciding what to buy in diamond jewelry for Christmas gifts, here are some tips from Bill Harris, vice president and director of marketing for the Zale Jewelry Division of Zale Corporation, the world's largest jewelry retailer:

- Examine the lifestyle, tastes and characteristics of those who will receive the gift. Says Harris, "A large diamond cluster ring wouldn't be practical for a woman who uses her hands a lot. A woman with short fingers may be overpowered by a wide ring band."

- A popular new design for both men's and women's rings is the "channel-set" mounting, in which a row of diamonds is wedged cleanly into the setting. The diamonds may cover only a portion of the mounting or completely encircle the band. Not only does this design show the diamonds' sparkle, but it also alleviates the need for prongs which can catch on clothing. This mounting style also serves well as an anniversary ring, with one diamond marking each year of marriage.

- Some stocking stuffers: men's diamond jewelry in understated masculine designs that reflect flair, not flash. Earring jackets, from simple to ornate, can change the look of a single pair of diamond or colored gemstone studs.

- Always buy from a reputable jeweler.
- Choose a piece because of the stone. Settings are faddish and can hide chips or other imperfections.

- Keep in mind a diamond's four key qualities: Cut-refers to the shape and to the skill and precision of cutting the rough stone to reveal its ultimate beauty. Color-it is the absence of color that makes one diamond more precious than the other. Carat weight-indicates the size of a diamond. Clarity-refers to a diamond's freedom from flaws.

- Ask questions. Your jeweler is more than happy to help. You'll find that unlike Christmas ornaments, fine jewelry "ornaments" can be enjoyed all year long.

FINE HOLIDAY DINING

Just Like Home Cookin'

You've just pushed yourself away from the table for the third time, (and this time you mean it, because there is no way you can down another morsel of food or sip of coffee), and you're waiting (not too long) for the check, the penalty one pays for such a feast! Out of the corner of your eye you see her floating your way...and, would you look at that, she's smiling!! "Can't butter me up with sweetness now, anyhow, I'm braced for the worst," you think to yourself. Imagine your surprise, (nay, shock) when your eyes peruse a $5.95 check, the "penalty" for a large crisp and fresh salad followed by a monstrous baked potato brimming with butter and sour cream and an entree of one of the best filet mignon's you've ever had. The pleasant and super-fast service, at-home atmosphere, and friendly conversation didn't hurt either.

You've just had a typical family-style meal at Josy Family Steak House where five-star food at near fast food prices is the "order of the day." Conveniently located across from Janaf Shopping Center on Military Highway, Chesapeake, Norfolk, Virginia Beach and Portsmouth residents can reach it by interstate in 5 to 20 minutes.

Former Popeye Restaurants operations manager, Stan Koushel, and wife Josy, have created exactly what they set out to do many months ago, that is, "create a truly good affordable restaurant where a family can go and have a good meal at reasonable prices," said Stan recently. "One reason I bought this restaurant was to provide a place a whole family, civic, church, or business organization. Everything is made fresh at the restaurant, including desserts and salads."

In addition to a full dinner menu, the restaurant opens for breakfast and lunch with prices that rival fast food operations. A complete lunch can be enjoyed for about $3.00.

So, if you are looking for a great family restaurant where portions or quality are not sacrificed to create a phony "low price", look no further... head to Josy.

Josy Family Steak House is located on Military Highway in Norfolk across from Janaf Shopping Center.

"A Little Different"

When Carl Chiarenza opened the Last Chance Cafe in Greenbrier Mall two months ago, he realized he needed to offer something a little different. He started offering entertainment—specifically acoustical guitar with a rotating variety of players.

"I'm from Virginia Beach and there is a lot of it there. But you don't see much in Chesapeake. So I started off with entertainment immediately."

"We've really got good response. Ron Wilson and Jeff Phillips, who have a local following, are our 'mainliners,' but we rotate them with other musicians."

Chiarenza found that his cafe, which offers omelettes, burgers, Barbeque and ribs as well as nightly dinner specials, had too much of a relaxed atmosphere to attract shoppers in a hurry.

The live entertainment is providing him with the right blend of atmosphere and a strong drawing card for repeat customers.

"The performers are developing a substantial following. The music has really got us into the community. Whatever trade we've got we have to develop ourselves."

"Now people come for food, fun, drinks and music. They're not coming to shop in the mall. Our happy hours also help."

Chiarenza is also going to feature noon and dinner-hour fashion shows at the Last Chance Cafe, which is located at the main entrance to Greenbrier Mall.

Pete Lamore was chosen Outstanding Sportsman by the Kings Grant Recreation Association at the dedication of Brill Athletic Field.

On hand for the dedication, left to right, were U.S. Representative G. William Whitehurst; City Manager Thomas H. Muehlenbeck; City Councilman Jack Jennings; Mr. Tommy Brill; House of Delegates Representative Buster O'Brien; and Harold S. Whitehurst, Director of Parks and Recreation.

Youngsters participating in the Turkey Bowl at Brill Athletic Field observe the dedication ceremony.

Brill Field Dedicated

During the Thanksgiving Holiday the Percy A. Brill Family, Kings Grant Recreation Association and the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation proudly dedicated the Brill Athletic Field to the young people who play soccer and flag football in the Kings Grant Little Neck Area.

This field is leased from the Brill family at $1 per year to provide playing fields for the community sports program in Kings Grant. City Councilman Jack Jennings, who represents the Lynnhaven Borough stated, "This is an excellent example of cooperation between the City of Virginia Beach and the private sector working together to provide a much needed open space area for an established community." Tommy Brill represented his father, Percy A. Brill, at the dedication and was presented a plaque commemorating the dedication. The plaque was on behalf of all the children who will be the direct beneficiary of this much needed new athletic field facility.

Congressman G. William Whitehurst, House of Delegates Representative Buster O'Brien, Councilman Jack Jennings and City Manager Thomas H. Muehlenbeck were in attendance at this dedication for the field. They were there to recognize and show their appreciation to the Brill family for their tremendous contribution to the young people.

The Brill Athletic Field area provides three soccer fields for an active recreational sports program. On Saturday mornings, in some cases Saturday afternoons, and after school until dark it would be found that these fields are in heavy utilization. The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation has agreed to maintain the field for the children's use.

For further information concerning leasing of private lands for park and recreational activities, contact Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation at 467-4884.

Frank Candelario, Chairman of Kings Grant Recreation Association presents a plaque of appreciation to Tommy Brill at the dedication of Brill Athletic Field.

Crime Info Sought

The Virginia Beach Crime Solvers program and Pic 'N Pay Stores, Inc., are offering a total of up to $6,000 in cash for information that leads to the arrest of the man responsible for the November 8th sexual assault of a woman at Haygood Shopping Center.

On that Tuesday afternoon at 12:15 p.m. a 21 year old woman was working at the Pic 'N Pay shoe store at 1021 Independence Boulevard when a man, who had been in the store 15 minutes earlier, came back inside, grabbed the victim around the neck from behind and forced her into the rear office area and sexually assaulted her.

The assailant was described as a 19-20 year old black male, approximately 6' 2" tall, medium built, very short hair (almost shaved appearance), and a small goatee under the chin. He had three blue earrings in his right ear.

At the time of the assault he was wearing a knee length dark blue winter jacket, a white "V" neck sweater trimmed in black, navy blue work pants and had silver duct tape on the toes of brown work shoes. A pair of new shoes were also taken from the store by the man.

If you have information about this crime, call 427-0000 and if an arrest is made as a result of that information, you will receive up to $6,000 in cash.

Crime Solvers also pays rewards for information about any crime and for information leading to the recovery of stolen property or illegal drugs. Callers can collect the cash without giving their name or testifying in court.

Robbers Sought

The Virginia Beach Crime Solvers program is seeking information about the location of two men wanted for the October 4 robbery of a Navy man.

At 11 p.m. that Tuesday night, a 19 year old sailor became lost and mistakenly rode his motorcycle onto Carver Avenue in the Friendship Village section of Virginia Beach. While making a u-turn to leave, the bike stalled and as he tried to restart it, he was approached by several black males. They knocked him to the ground, struck him several times on the head, and his wallet and motorcycle were taken.

Since this incident, one arrest has been made but two men involved, Kevin Fitzgerald Stevenson and James Palmer, Jr. are still being sought.

Stevenson is a 18 year old black male, 6 feet tall, weighs 145 pounds, with a short black afro hair style. James Palmer, Jr. is a 19 year old black male with black hair and brown eyes. He is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. He has the initials "JP" tattooed on his forearm.

Anyone with information about these men, or any other wanted person, should call Virginia Beach Crime Solvers at 427-0000. Callers whose information leads to an arrest will be paid up to $1,000.

Christmas Around The World

When people in California are waking up on Christmas morning, people in New York are sitting down for Christmas lunch. Meanwhile, in England, it's time for afternoon tea. In Russia, it's suppertime, and the stars are beginning to twinkle.

Although people celebrate Christmas at different times all over the world, they share many of the same customs. Christmas decorations, music, church services, and gift giving are common to many nations. It's only some of the details of the celebrations that are different.

Christmas In Germany

The German Christmas is very similar to our American one. The Christmas tree, some of our carols ("Away in a Manager"), and many of our recipes come from Germany. The German pastry, spingele, or hard cookies with pictures stamped on them, is popular at holiday parties. So is the German Christmas tree pastry, Christbaumgebäck. This is a white dough that can be molded into shapes and baked for tree decorations. Germans also make beautiful ginger bread houses and cookies.

In parts of Germany, people believe that the Christ child sends a messenger on Christmas Eve. He appears as an angel in a white robe and crown, bearing gifts. The angel is called Christkind. There is also a Christmas Eve figure called Weihnachtsmann or "Christmas Man." He looks like Santa Claus and also brings gifts.

Christmas Eve is special for another reason. At midnight, according to legend, cows are able to talk in honor of the cows who breathed on baby Jesus to keep him warm.

Besides these customs, Germans take Advent seriously. They hang up an Advent wreath with the four candles, lighting a candle on each Sunday before Christmas. They also have an Advent calendar, which has a "window" that can be opened on each day of Advent to show a Christmas scene beneath.

When Christmas arrives, the Germans like to give homemade gifts to one another. They are famous for their beautiful handicrafts. Before Christmas, there are special Christmas sales around the country where local artists and cooks show their work.

Christmas In Sweden

Christmas in Sweden starts on December 13, or St. Lucia's Day.

Lucia was a young girl who lived in Sicily in the fourth century. She believed in Christ, which was against the law in Sicily. When a man who did not share her faith asked her to get married, she refused. The man was so angry that he told the governor, and the governor had her killed. Two hundred years later, she was made a saint.

No one knows exactly why Lucia, a Sicilian, became popular in Sweden. Some say it's because she appeared to the Swedes in a vision one winter during a famine. She arrived in a glow of light, bringing food.

At dawn on December 13, the oldest daughter in each family dresses up as St. Lucia. She puts on a white robe and wears a crown of lighted candles. Then she wakes everyone, bringing them coffee, buns, and cookies.

Besides a St. Lucia in each home, there is a St. Lucia in each town. People vote on which girl will play the role. Once she is picked, she leads a parade of young people carrying lighted candles through the town. She spends all day helping the town celebrate.

The high point of the Swedish Christmas falls on Christmas Eve. After a delicious meal that lasts all afternoon, candles are lit on the Christmas tree. Then everyone waits for Jultomten, a tiny gnome who comes in a sleigh drawn by a goat. When everyone is asleep, he leaves presents for people and extra food for animals.

Another gift-giving custom—Julkapp—is also popular. Someone knocks on the door, throws a present into the room, and runs away. The present is wrapped in many layers of paper. The longer it takes to unwrap it, the more successful the Julkapp.

Epiphany Eve arrives ten days later, and young boys dress up as the Magi and carry stars on long poles. They are called Star Boys, and they roam the streets singing carols.

Christmas is finally over January 13—St. Knut's Day. An ancient ruler, King Knut IV, wanted the season to end twenty days after Christmas Day. People take down their trees, and children sing:

*The twentieth day, King Knut did rule
Would end the festival of Yule.*

Christmas In The Kitchen!

Tips Before You Begin

1. Make sure you have the necessary ingredients and equipment.
2. Wear an apron. A lot of Christmas cooking is messy, since floury dough and greasy fingers are common in Christmas baking.
3. "Shortening" means softened margarine, softened butter, or vegetable oil. Butter provides the best flavor, but one kind of shortening can be used in place of another, unless the recipe calls for one kind only.
4. Flour: all-purpose, presifted flour is best.
5. If you do not have a sifter, place dry ingredients in a sieve over a bowl. Take a spoon and stir ingredients until they pass through the holes in the sieve to the bowl beneath.
6. It's easier to beat eggs with a fork or a whisk than with an eggbeater.

7. Instead of greasing a cookie sheet, try placing a strip of aluminum foil over its surface. This is a good way to keep the cookies from sticking to the bottom.
8. Preheat the oven for twenty minutes before baking.
9. Clean up the kitchen as you work.

Caution

Here are a few basic rules about safety:

1. Ask an adult's permission to use the kitchen before you begin.
2. Ask an adult to help when you:
  - a) light the oven or burners.
  - b) heat things on top of the stove.
  - c) use an electric mixer or blender.
3. Turn the handles of hot pots and pans so that people will not bump into them.
4. Set hot pans down on a wooden surface, since some counter tops scorch easily. You can also use a pot holder or a trivet.
5. Use pot holders when handling anything hot.

Everyone looks forward to the delicious treats that are served during the Christmas season. It is a holiday of feasting with family and friends. It is the time of year when many people give parties and serve punch, eggnog, holiday breads, and sweets. Baked goods are popular Christmas gifts, too.

The main meal of the season is usually served in the middle of Christmas Day. Some families, however, prefer to feast on Christmas Eve. Italian-Americans, for example, often have a meatless meal in honor of the fast that was once held during Advent. Whether served on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day, the meal is lavish, sometimes with as many as twelve courses. A typical Christmas meal menu is roast turkey with oyster stuffing, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, creamed onions, and mince meat pie.

To really have fun in the kitchen at Christmas, take out a book of Christmas recipes from your local library. Also, look through the Christmas issues of magazines such as Family Circle, Ladies' Home Journal, and Good Housekeeping. Try some of the recipes that are unique to other countries. Many of them, such as the recipe for German spingeler or Christollen, are difficult but are worth the effort. And, of course, you can always ask an adult to help.

A Hymn Sung As By The Shepherds

RICHARD CRASHAW

Welcome, all wonders in one sight!
Eternity shut in a span!
Summer in winter, day in night!
Heaven in earth, and God in man!
Great little One! whose all-embracing birth
Lifts earth to heaven, stoops heaven to earth...

To Thee, meek Majesty! soft King
Of simple graces and sweet loves:
Each of us his lamb will bring;
Each his pair of silver doves;
Till burnt at last in fire of Thy fair eyes,
Ourselves become our own best sacrifice.

The Christmas Calendar

After December 25 was picked as the Christmas holiday, the month before was set aside as a season of fasting and prayer. It was called Advent, which comes from the Latin word meaning "to come." People used this time to prepare for Christ's coming into the world. Advent starts on the fourth Sunday before Christmas and ends on Christmas Day. It is still observed by many Christians.

Christians celebrate Advent by going to church on the four Sundays before Christmas. They also hang Advent wreaths in their homes and churches. The round shape goes back to the Saturnalia festival, when people stopped work and hung up their waggon wheels. They decorated them with evergreens and lighted candles. The flames stood for the light brought into the world by the return of the sun. Like the pagans, Christians today light candles during the Christmas season. On each Sunday before Christmas, they light one candle and place it on their Advent wreath. Because this is a fire hazard, some families use electric candles. Others place the candles on a nearby table or window. Then, on Christmas Eve, a large candle is lit to honor Christ. This light stands for the light he brought into the world when he was born.

There are also nine days before Christmas—the posadas days—that are celebrated by Spanish-speaking Americans. Posada is the Spanish word for inn. During these nine days, people act out Mary and Joseph's search for the inn in Bethlehem. The manger for the baby Jesus is left empty until Christmas Day, when a doll is added to stand for Christ.

Christmas is celebrated on January 7 by many Greek and Russian Orthodox churches. On the Gregorian calendar which they follow, January 7 is the same as December 25.

Even though many people celebrate Christmas for only one day, Christmas actually lasts for twelve days. These twelve days begin on Christmas Eve and last until Epiphany on January 6. Epiphany was an early Roman festival that honored the Magi's visit to Bethlehem. Today, Epiphany mainly marks the end of the Christmas season. It is a time to take down decorations in homes and churches. Only in a very few churches do decorations stay up until February 2, the Festival of Candlemas. In some churches this is the day on which candles are blessed for the coming year.

The Merry Music of Christmas !!

The merry music of Christmas can be heard everywhere during December. People band together and walk up and down streets, singing Christmas carols beneath windows. Carols are sung in church on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day, and people like to sing them at parties or listen to them on records. They're heard on TV, on the radio, in banks, in schools, and in stores all over America. Christmas is a musical time of year, and the words of "Silent Night," "We Three Kings of Orient Are," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Away in a Manger," and other carols bring joy to everyone's heart.

The word carol comes from the Greek word choralein, which was an ancient dance performed in a circle to flute music. The Romans borrowed the custom from the Greeks and later brought it to England. In the Middle Ages, the English danced in a ring to singing voices. They used the word carol to describe what they were doing. Finally, carol changed from meaning a dance to meaning a song.

Besides making the creche popular at Christmas, St. Francis of Assisi wrote beautiful Christmas hymns. The friars who followed him also wrote joyous hymns.

The friars met and sang in front of every house that had a candle in the window. Today, groups of carol singers are found all over America. There are also Christmas concerts and special carol services that are performed on a large scale.

Hark! The Herald Angels Sing

Hark! the herald angels sing,
"Glory to the new-born King;
Peace on earth, and mercy mild,
God and sinners reconciled!"
Joyful, all ye nations, rise,
Join the triumph of the skies;
With th'angelic hosts proclaim,
"Christ is born in Bethlehem!"
Hark! the herald angels sing,
"Glory to the new-born King."

Christ, by highest heaven adored;
Christ, the ever-lasting Lord;
Come, Desire of Nations, come,
Fix in us thy humble home.
Veiled in flesh the God-head see;
Hail th' Incarnate Deity,
Pleased as man with man to dwell;
Jesus, our Emmanuel,
Hark! the herald angels sing,
"Glory to the new-born King."

Hail, the heav'n-born Prince of Peace!
Hail, the Sun of Righteousness!
Light and life to all He brings,
Ris'n with healing in His wings;
Mild He lays His glory by,
Born that man no more may die,
Born to raise the sons of earth,
Born to give them second birth;
Hark! the herald angels sing,

Silent Night

Silent night, holy night!
All is calm, all is bright
Round yon Virgin Mother and Child.
Holy Infant so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace,
Sleep in heavenly peace.

Joy to the world!
The Lord is come;
Let earth receive Her King;
Let ev'ry heart prepare Him room,
And heav'n and nature sing,
And heav'n and nature sing,
And heav'n and nature sing.

Joy to the world!
The Saviour reigns;
Let men their songs employ;
While fields and floods, rocks, hills and plains
Repeat the sounding joy,
Repeat the sounding joy,
Repeat, repeat the sounding joy.

He rules the world with truth and grace,
And makes the nations proud
The glories of His righteousness,
And wonders of His love,
And wonders of His love, And wonders,
And wonders of His love.

O Come All Ye Faithful

O come, all ye faithful,
Joyful and triumphant,
O come ye, O come ye to Bethlehem;
Come and behold Him,

O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
Christ, the Lord!

Sing, choirs of angels, sing in exultation
O sing, all ye citizens of heaven above!
Glory to God, all glory in the highest;
O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
Christ, the Lord!

Yea, Lord, we greet Thee,
Born this happy morning,
Jesus, to Thee be all glory giv'n;
Word of the father now in flesh appearing

O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,

The African Christian Celebrates Christmas In Many Different Ways

Because African Christians are spread out over the continent, Christmas is celebrated in many different ways.

In Ethiopia, Christians belong to the Coptic church. The Coptic church, like the Eastern Orthodox churches, follows the Gregorian calendar. Therefore, Christmas falls on January 7. Right before Christmas, thousands of Christians journey to the church in the city of Lalibela. On Christmas Day, a large group of nuns, priests, and monks form a line and climb to a nearby hilltop. There, they perform a special Christmas service. When it's over, everyone celebrates the rest of the day with dancing, sports, and feasting.

In Ghana, Christians have many of the same customs as Americans do. They send Christmas cards. Like the British, they have a Father Christmas, but he comes from the jungle, bearing gifts. They decorate their houses with beautiful flowers and palm branches. On Christmas Eve, children march up and down the streets, shouting "Egbona hee, egbona hee! Egogo vo," meaning "Christ is coming! Christ is near!" Then they go to church with their families, where the candles on a giant evergreen or palm tree are lit. On Christmas Day, they give each other gifts, enjoy a large feast, and dance and sing.

THEODORE LEDYARD CUYLER

As the visits of Santa Claus in the night could only be through the chimney, we hung our stockings where they would be in full sight. Three score and ten years ago such modern contrivances as steam pipes, and those unpoetical holes in the floor called 'hot-air registers', were as entirely unknown in our rural regions as gas-burners or telephones. We had a genuine fire-place in our kitchen, big enough to contain an enormous back-log, and broad enough for eight or ten people to form 'a circle wide' before it and enjoy the genial warmth.

The last process before going to bed was to suspend our stockings in the chimney jambs; and then we

Festive Holiday Sugar Cookies

Ingredients:

- 1/3 cup (160 ml) shortening
- 1/4 cup (180 ml) granulated sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 tsp. (5 ml) vanilla
- 2 cups (480 ml) flour
- 1 1/2 tsp. (7.5 ml) baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. (2.5 ml) salt
- 4 tsp. (20 ml) milk
- colored sugar crystals

Equipment:

- Measuring spoons and cup
- Mixing spoon
- Large mixing bowl
- Medium-sized mixing bowl
- Sieve
- Wax paper
- Rolling pin
- Large wooden cutting board
- Cookie cutter
- Small amount of shortening to grease cookie sheet, or aluminum foil
- Cookie sheet

What you do:

1. Mix shortening and sugar together in large bowl.
2. Add egg and vanilla and mix some more.
3. Sift together in medium-sized bowl: flour, baking powder, and salt.
4. Add flour mixture to sugar mixture. Blend. It will be stiff. Add milk to make it easier to stir.
5. When it looks like dough (firm enough to shape), divide in half and wrap in two pieces of wax paper. Chill for two hours.
6. Preheat oven to 375 Degrees (191 deg. C).
7. Grease cookie sheet or cover with aluminum foil.
8. Unwrap one package of dough. Dip the rolling pin in flour and roll the dough out on a floured wooden cutting board. If the dough sticks to the rolling pin, sprinkle it with more flour. If the dough sticks to your fingers, coat them with a tiny bit of shortening. The dough should be rolled out to 1/8 in. (3.18 mm) thick. (The thinner the dough, the crispier the cookies.)
9. Dip cookie cutters in flour. Press them into dough, then drop shape into cookie sheet. The cookie sheet should hold about 12 cookies.
10. Sprinkle cookies with colored sugar crystals.
11. Bake 8-9 minutes. The cookies should be removed from oven before they turn golden-brown.
12. Let cookies cool for 5 minutes before removing from cookie sheet.
13. When you finish with the first package of dough, repeat, using the second package.
14. Makes 50 cookies.

The Holly and Ivy and Mistletoe

Holly and Ivy

The leaders of the early Church wanted to get rid of the pagan custom of bringing evergreens indoors. But the pagans kept doing so, even after some of them became Christians. So finally the leaders decided to make evergreens part of the story of Christ's life. A legend began that the crown of thorns Christ wore before his death was made of holly leaves. When the crown pricked Christ's forehead, his blood flowed over the holly berries, changing them from white to red.

After the early Church accepted holly, it was used as a Christmas Decoration.

Ivy, on the other hand, took a much longer time to be accepted because ivy was the symbol of an ancient Roman god named Bacchus. He was the god of wine and could make people happy or miserable, depending upon how much wine they drank. The Church didn't approve of people getting drunk. As a result, the symbol for the god of wine was not brought into the early Church. As time passed, however, ivy became a symbol of everlasting life, and was used as a Christmas decoration also.

In most early English carols, holly and ivy were mentioned together since they were symbols for the male and female halves of human nature. Holly became known as a "man's plant" because it protected itself with thorns in the same way a man would protect himself with weapons. Ivy was known as a "woman's plant" because it had to be supported by a wall or tree in the same way women were thought to need the support of men in the Middle Ages.

Mistletoe

About twenty-two hundred years ago, a group of people called the Celts lived in what are now the British Isles and France. Their priests, or Druids, killed animals and people as gifts to the gods. They wanted the gods to protect them from evil spirits and witches. The Druids believed that the mistletoe which grew on oak trees had special powers. They thought that during winter the oak tree god lived in the mistletoe after the oak branches died. When the winter solstice came, the high priest, dressed in white, climbed an oak tree and cut down the mistletoe with a golden sickle. The mistletoe was caught by a white cloth, so that it wouldn't touch the ground where the witches could harm it. Then the Druids placed part of the mistletoe on an altar and killed two white bulls as a gift to the gods. Afterward, they divided the rest of the mistletoe and gave it to the townspeople to hang over their doors for good luck. The Druids called the mistletoe "all healer." They thought that if childless women and animals ate it, they would be able to have babies. They believed that it cured epilepsy. Because it grew high up and didn't touch the ground, epileptics ate it to keep from falling down. It was also supposed to heal skin ulcers and protect people from being poisoned.

Today, people kiss each other under mistletoe. This custom comes from a Scandinavian legend: An ancient god named Balder had a dream that he was going to die. He was so worried that he shared his dream with his mother, the goddess Frigg. She became alarmed and in an effort to protect her son, she made everyone and everything promise not to harm him. But she forgot to ask the mistletoe, since she didn't think the plant was important enough to cause any trouble. There was another god named Loki who was very jealous of Balder. When he found out that Frigg had ignored the mistletoe, he asked the blind god Hother to hurl a mistletoe dart at Balder. Hother did as Loki asked, and the dart pierced Balder and killed him. Frigg was very sad to have lost her son. She cried so much that her tears became the white berries on the mistletoe plant. Frigg pleaded with the gods to bring Balder back to life. Since they too loved Balder, they agreed to do so. Frigg was happy again. She stood under the mistletoe's white berries and kissed everyone who passed beneath. In time, mistletoe became a symbol of peace and love. If enemies met below it, they laid down their arms and made peace.

Because of its pagan origins, mistletoe is not usually allowed inside churches. But it is hung in homes, where people kiss under it to heal pain, end arguments, and bring good luck.

The early English carol below shows that holly had become part of the Christmas story by the sixteenth century:

The Holly and the Ivy

Author Unknown

The holly and the ivy,
When they are both full grown,
Of all the trees that are in the wood,
The holly bears the crown:

*The rising of the sun
And the running of the deer,
The playing of the merry organ,
Sweet singing in the choir.*

The holly bears a blossom,
As white as lily flower,
And Mary bore sweet Jesus Christ
To do poor sinners good.

The holly bears a prickly,
As sharp as any thorn,
And Mary bore sweet Jesus Christ
On Christmas Day in the morn.

The holly bears a bark,
As bitter as any gall,
And Mary bore sweet Jesus Christ
For to redeem us all.

Oh! Christmas Tree.....

Our modern Christmas tree stands for life, as evergreens did before Christ was born. But the custom of cutting down a whole tree and bringing it indoors is just a few hundred years old. As far as anyone knows, only branches were brought indoors during the pagan festivals. And to this day, it's unclear how the custom of decorating Christmas trees began.

Some people think it was started in Germany in the fifteenth century by a famous monk named Martin Luther. A popular story says that while he was walking through the woods on Christmas Eve, he looked up and saw stars sparkling through the branches of a fir tree. He was so struck by the sky's beauty that he cut down the fir tree, carried it home, and decorated it with lighted candles. He wanted to show how it had looked when it was lit up by starlight.

There are some even earlier legends about the Christmas tree. In the tenth century, a man named George Jacob told a story in which all the trees in the world bloomed on the night Christ was born. And there's a French legend from the thirteenth century about an enormous tree lit with candles that could be seen in a forest on Christmas Eve. At the top of the tree, baby Jesus rested with a halo around his head.

These are legends. But there is a real story about decorated evergreen branches that might explain the first Christmas trees. During the Middle Ages, German peasants performed plays in front of churches on December 25. These plays were about Adam and Eve, the first man and woman made by God. The players acted out the story of how God cast Adam and Eve out of the Garden of Eden after they ate an apple from the tree of good and evil. The players hung apples on an evergreen branch to stand for the tree.

When the Church leaders no longer allowed these plays to be performed, people started to bring "Adam and Eve trees" into their homes on December 25. They brought both evergreen branches and small fir trees indoors. They decorated them with apples, and with roses and wafers to stand for Mary and Christ. They called these decorated evergreens Christbaum. They often placed Christbaum next to two other Christmas shapes. One was called a pyramid, a wooden frame that held branches and candles. The other was called a lichtstock, a flat triangle that held candles. Perhaps people thought candles would look nice on the Christbaum when they saw it next to the lichtstock and pyramid. Whatever the reason, by the 1700s, Germans were decorating small indoor trees with candles.

In the nineteenth century, Christmas trees became popular in England. This was because Queen Victoria's German husband, Albert, missed Christmas trees when he married and moved to England. So in 1841 he started the custom of decorating a large tree in Windsor Castle. Soon everyone in England was decorating Christmas trees.

Germans also brought the Christmas tree to America. As early as 1747, trees were being decorated in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, by a group of Germans called Moravians. Christmas trees didn't become really popular in America, however, until the twentieth century. That's when it became possible to trim trees with electric lights and handmade glass ornaments. So many trees were being cut down that one year President Theodore Roosevelt banned the Christmas tree from the White House. (Even so, his sons Archie and Quentin smuggled a Christmas tree into Archie's closet!) Today, trees are grown on special farms just for Christmas. They're much taller and larger than the tiny fir trees first used at Christmas in the Middle Ages.

Trimming The Tree

The Germans in the Middle Ages decorated their fir trees with nuts, fruits, gingerbread, paper roses, candies, and homemade paper ornaments. Their trees became especially beautiful when they began to attach candles to the branches. Since candles were a fire hazard, it was a great relief when Thomas Alva Edison invented the electric light bulb in 1879. One of his best friends, Edward Johnson, tried using electric lights on a Christmas tree in 1882. Then, in 1895, President Grover Cleveland decorated the tree at the White House with electric lights. Finally, electric lights on strings were invented in 1907, and the invention spread rapidly across the country.

Today, people have many choices for trimming their trees. They can fill them with homemade decorations, ornaments bought in a store, or a combination of both. It's very unusual to see two trees that look alike. Decorating a tree is a wonderful way to bring people together and to do something creative at Christmas.

A warm and friendly wish of cheer for Christmas to all our wonderful friends.

Saint Nicholas of Bari?

BOOTH TARKINGTON

Something more than a dozen years ago, at Princeton, I heard from one of the "Art Professors" that a painting by Mainardi, a fine example from the Florentine Renaissance of the high period, could be bought in New York for far less than its worth. The great Depression was then upon us; the picture had been put through an auction sale and a dealer had bid it in for a fifth of what had once been paid for it.

I went to his galleries; he brought out the painting and I stood puzzled before it. The central figure was that of the blonde Virgin enthroned and holding the Christ child upon her lap. That was plain enough; but who were the two tall saints flanking the throne? One, holding a book, was a woman, probably identifiable as Ste. Justina; the other one was the problem—a long, thin, elderly man, bearded, ecclesiastically robed, red-gloved and carrying four loaves of bread in token of what function I couldn't guess.

One thing was certain: this ancient gentleman was immeasurably compassionate. That was markedly his expression. A deep world sadness underlay the look of pity; he was visibly a person who suffered less his own anguish and more that of others. You saw at once that he was profoundly sorry for all of humankind.

When I had the painting on my own wall at home, I found that a gentle melancholy pervaded the room and the old saint seemed to add a wistfulness. "Don't you really wish to know who I am?" he inquired to me whenever I looked his way.

I did indeed wish to know him and to understand his sorrow, which was one of the kind we call "haunting"—all the more so because it was universal. Of all the saints, he was the one who most mourned over the miseries of this tangled world. We got our books, wrote to iconographical experts—and lo! we had our man. The sad old saint is—Santa Claus!

He is St. Nicholas of Bari and his four loaves of bread signify his giving, his generosity. In time, as the legend grew and changed, the most jocund and hearty of all symbolic figures emerged from this acutely sad and grieving one. St. Nicholas of Bari became "Old Saint Nick," "Kris-Kingle" (a most twisted alliterative) and Santa Claus.

He, the trouble and unhappy, now comes laughing down the chimney, fat and merry, to be the jovial inspiration of our jolliest season of the year. We say that time changed him, made this metamorphosis; but it was we—"we the people"—who did it. Time only let us forget that St. Nicholas was a sorrowful man.

Mainardi put a date on the painting. It is clear and neat upon a step of the Virgin's throne—1507. In the long march of mankind, the four hundred and thirty-eight years that have elapsed since the Tuscan painter finished his picture is but a breath. St. Nicholas as we know him now, our jolly, shouting friend, a frolic for the children, may become the saddest of all the saints again, someday. What made us brighten him into Santa Claus was our knowledge that the world was growing kinder than it was in 1507.

St. Nicholas of Bari knew only a cruel world. Christmas of this year needs the transfigured image of him—the jolly one who is merry because the world is wise—and kind.

Christmas In England

Like Americans, the British enjoy beautiful holiday music. They also like to decorate Christmas trees and hang up evergreen branches. But they have some special customs of their own.

One of these is called mummung. In the Middle Ages, people called mummies put on masks and acted out Christmas plays. These plays are still performed in towns and villages.

The English also celebrate December 26 as a special day. They call it Boxing Day and give presents to mailmen, newboys, and other public servants. The name comes from the old custom of putting money for the poor into boxes inside churches. On December 26, the priests would open the boxes and give the money away.

The English gift giver is called Father Christmas. He wears a long red or green robe and leaves presents in stockings on Christmas Eve. However, the gifts are not usually opened until the following afternoon.

Christmas In Mexico

In Mexico, the nine posadas days are the heart of the holiday celebration. On December 16 an empty manger is placed on an altar (posabra) in each home. Friends and family gather together and act out the story of Mary and Joseph being turned away from the inn in Bethlehem. Then, on Christmas Eve, the altar is decorated with tinsel and flowers, and a baby Jesus figure is placed in the manger. Everyone celebrates his birth by singing, dancing, and feasting until Midnight Mass.

Also on each of the nine posadas days, there is a special children's game. After the Mary and Joseph play is over, each child gets to whack a pinata that hangs from a rope. This is a paper figure that contains a jar filled with gifts, fruit, and candy. When the children whack it, it breaks, and the contents spill out. The young people scramble for their share of the gifts.

On Epiphany Eve, children put their shoes in the window. They hope that the Magi will pass by the window during the night and leave gifts. Continued on page 22

Christmas Eve...Since Forever

Christmas Eve is perhaps the most exciting night of the year. It's the time when families finish decorating their tree and light the yule log. It's when children hang stockings and put out milk and cookies for Santa Claus. And it's the evening when the beautiful midnight service takes place at church.

Families often will wait until after dinner to decorate their tree. Then they can see how it looks when it's lit up in the dark for the first time. But there is no hard and fast rule. A tree can be decorated anytime before Christmas Day. Christmas Eve, however, is the time to light the yule log.

The yule log is an enormous piece of firewood. Sometimes it's the whole trunk of a tree. It's usually cut from oak, ash, or birch wood. Children in England like to cover it with mistletoe before it's carried inside and lit.

Like evergreens, the custom of burning the yule log dates back to before Christ was born. It was burned during the winter solstice to bring light and warmth to the darkest time of year. Its brightness was a reminder that spring would come again and crops would grow.

Families hoped that the ghosts of their ancestors would come and get warm by its heat. They also hoped that its flames would scare away demons and bad spirits.

In ancient Scandinavia, the yule log was lit to honor Thor, the god of thunder. Perhaps that is why Europeans believed it protected their homes from thunder and lightning. Until the middle of the nineteenth century, Germans let the yule log burn for only a short time. Then they took it out of the fireplace and stored it in a safe spot. Any time there was a thunderstorm during the next year, they put the yule log back on the fire. Supposedly, lightning would not strike a house in which a yule log burned.

People also thought the yule log helped animals give birth to more babies. The French soaked the log in water. Then they gave the water to their cows to drink. This was supposed to make the cows have more calves than usual. The French believed there would be as many lambs, calves, baby goats, and chickens as there were sparks in the yule log. When kept under the bed, the yule log was even thought to be a good cure for swollen glands and cold sores.

Today, most people don't have a fireplace that is big enough to hold a yule log. But when they light a small fire in their fireplace, they can think about "the old yule log custom." Or they can find out if there is a local yule log ceremony. For example, there is a special "yule log" Christmas festival every year in Yosemite National Park in California. Four or five people dress up in white capes like the ancient Druids did. They gather together and carry a yule log, some holy, and a blazing torch indoors. They place the log in a great fireplace and light it with a piece from the previous year. If the log is still burning the next morning, the New Year will bring good luck. But if the log burns out, the New Year will not be a happy one.

Besides lighting a yule log, many people like to go to a midnight service at their local church. This is usually a much lovelier service than the one on Christmas morning. It is held at midnight because an old legend said that Christ was born at that hour. But no one knows for certain. The ancient Romans held mass when the cock crowed, which was about three o'clock in the morning. To this day, Spanish-speaking Americans call the midnight mass Misa de Gallo, "Mass of the cock."

During the service, the story of Christ's birth is read from the Bible. Often the church is lit up by candlelight to stand for the brightness Christ brought into the world. Everyone sings carols and hymns, and the sound of music fills the church with joy.

In the Middle Ages, the big bells in the churches in England were rung again and again between eleven o'clock and midnight. This was called the devil's funeral because of a legend that the devil died when Christ was born. As the clock struck twelve, the bells broke into peals of Christmas joy. Midnight chimes are still rung today to the tune of Christmas carols.

Christmas Eve is also when Santa Claus, the ancient gift giver, comes with presents after everyone has gone to bed. Children like to leave him a snack of cookies and milk so that he won't get hungry during his night journey. They also hang stockings from the mantelpiece or at the end of their beds for him to fill with gifts. According to stories that have been passed down through the years, Santa Claus leaves an apple in the toe for good luck and an orange in the heel if you've been good. In the olden days, oranges were rare and expensive, so getting an orange was a special treat. Santa Claus also leaves a nut for fun, some salt for good luck, and a piece of coal to keep you warm in the New Year. But mostly, he fills stockings with small toys and treats and good things to eat. The stockings add a happy note to Christmas as they hang, waiting for Santa Claus's surprises.

Susie's Letter From Santa

MARK TWAIN

*Palace of St. Nicholas
In The Moon
Christmas Morning*

My dear Susie Clemens:

I have received and read all the letters which you and your little sister have written me by the hand of your mother and your nurses; I have also read those which your little people have written me with your own hands - for although you did not use any characters in grown people's alphabet, you used the characters that all children in all lands on earth and in the twinkling stars use; and as all my subjects in the moon are children and use no characters but that, you will easily understand that I can read your and your baby sister's jagged and fantastic marks without any trouble at all. But I had trouble with those letters which you dictated through your mother and the nurses, for I am a foreigner and cannot read English writing well. You will find that I made no mistakes about the things which you and the baby ordered in your own letters—I went down your chimney at midnight when you were asleep and delivered them all myself—and kissed both of you, too, because you are good children, well trained, nice mannered, and about the most obedient little people I ever saw. But in the letter which you dictated there were some words which I could not make out for certain, and one or two small orders which I could not fill because we ran out of stock. Our last lot of kitchen furniture for dolls has just gone to a very poor little child in the North Star away up in the cold country above the Big Dipper. Your mama can show you that star and you will say: "Little Snow Flake" (for that is the child's name), "I'm glad you got that furniture, for you need it more than I." That is, you must write that, with your own hand, and Snow Flake will write you an answer. If you only spoke it she wouldn't hear you. Make your letter light and thin, for the distance is great and the postage very heavy.

There was a word or two in your mama's letter which I couldn't be certain of. I took it to be "a trunk full of doll's clothes." Is that it? I will call at your kitchen door about nine o'clock this morning to inquire. But I must not see anybody and I must not speak to anybody but you. When the kitchen doorbell rings, George must be blindfolded and sent to open the door. Then he must go back to the dining room or the china closet and take the cook with him. You must tell George he must walk on tiptoe and not speak—otherwise he will die someday.

Then you must go up to the nursery and stand on a chair or the nurse's bed and put your ear to the speaking tube that leads down to the kitchen and when I whistle through it you must speak in the tube and say, "Welcome, Santa Claus!" Then I will ask whether it was a trunk you ordered or not. If you say it was, I shall ask you what color you want the trunk to be. Your mama will help you to name a nice color and then you must tell me every single thing in detail which you want the trunk to contain. Then when I say "Good-bye and a Merry Christmas to my little Susie Clemens," you must say "Good-bye, good old Santa Claus, I thank you very much and please tell that little Snow Flake I will look at her star tonight and she must look down here—I will be right in the west bay window; and every fine night I will look at her star and say, 'I know somebody up there and like her, too.'" Then you must go down into the library and make George close the doors that open into the main hall and everybody must keep still for a little while. Then while you are waiting I will go to the moon and get those things and in a few minutes I will come down the chimney that belongs to the fireplace that is in the hall—if it is a trunk you want—because I couldn't get such a large thing as a trunk down the nursery chimney, you know.

People may talk if they want, till they hear my footsteps in the hall. Then you tell them to keep quiet a little while until I go up the chimney. Maybe you will not hear my footsteps at all—so you may go now and then and peep through the dining-room doors, and by and by you will see that which you want, right under the piano in the drawing room—for I shall put it there. If I should leave any snow in the hall, you must tell George to sweep it into the fireplace, for I haven't time to do such things. George must not use a broom, but a rag—or he will die someday. You watch George and don't let him run into danger. If my boot should leave a stain on the marble, George must not holystone it away. Leave it there always in memory of my visit; and whenever you look at it or show it to anybody you must let it remind you to be a good little girl. Whenever you are naughty and somebody points to that mark which your good old Santa Claus's boot made on the marble, what will you say, little sweetheart?

Good-bye for a few minutes, till I come down and ring the kitchen doorbell.

*Your loving Santa Claus
Whom people sometimes call
"The Man in the Moon"*

O HOLY NIGHT

(ST. MATTHEW 2:1-14)

Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem.

Saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him.

When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people together, he demanded of them where Christ should be born.

And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judaea: for thus it is written by the prophet.

And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Judah, art not the least among the princes of Judah: for out of thee shall come a Governor, that shall rule my people Israel.

Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, enquired of them diligently what time the star appeared.

And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also.

When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was.

When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy.

And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

And being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way.

And when they were departed, behold, the angel of the Lord appeareth to Joseph in a dream, saying, Arise, and take the young child and his mother and flee into Egypt, and be thou there until I bring thee word: for Herod will seek the young child to destroy him.

When he arose, he took the young child and his mother by night, and departed into Egypt.

Christmas Eve At Sea...

JOHN MASEFIELD

A wind is rustling "south and soft,"
Cooing a quiet country tune,
The calm sea sighs, and far aloft
The sails are ghostly in the moon.

Unquiet ripples lip and purr,
A block there pipes and chirps the sheave,
The wheel-ropes jar, the reef-points stir
Faintly—and it is Christmas Eve.

The hushed sea seems to hold her breath,
And o'er the giddy, swaying spars,
Silent and excellent as Death,
The dim blue skies are bright with stars.

Dear God—they shone in Palestine
Like this, and yon pale moon serene
Looked down among the lowing kine
On Mary and the Nazarene.

The angels called from deep to deep,
The burning heavens felt the thrill,
Startling the flocks of silly sheep
And lonely shepherds on the hill.

To-night beneath the dripping bows,
Where flashing bubbles burst and throng,
The bow-wash murmurs and sighs and boughs
A message from the angel's song.

The moon goes nodding down the west,
The drowsy helmsman strikes the bell;
Rex Jadaeorum natus est,
I charge you, brothers, sing Nowell,
Nowell,
Rex Jadaeorum natus est.

Yes, Virginia, There Is A Santa Claus!

By Frances P. Church

Dear Editor: I am 8 years old.

Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus.

Papa says "If you see it in The Sun it's so."

Please tell me the truth; is there a Santa Claus?

Virginia O'Hanlon

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds.

All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see.

No Santa Claus! Thank God, he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

German Finger Cookies

Ingredients:

- 1 cup (240 ml) shortening
- ½ cup (120 ml) granulated sugar
- ½ cup (120 ml) light brown sugar
- ½ cup (80 ml) molasses
- 2/3 cup (160 ml) light corn syrup
- 4½ cups (1 1 + 80 ml) flour
- 1 tsp. (5 ml) baking soda
- 1 tsp. (5 ml) ginger
- 1 tsp. (5 ml) cinnamon
- ½ tsp. (2.5 ml) ground cloves

Equipment:

- Measuring spoons and cups
- Mixing spoon
- Small mixing bowl
- Large mixing bowl
- Sieve
- Wax paper
- Rolling pin
- Large wooden cutting board
- Drinking glass, 2 in. (5 cm) diameter
- Small amount of shortening to grease cookie sheet, or aluminum foil
- Cookie sheet

What you do:

1. Mix together in large bowl: shortening, granulated sugar, brown sugar, molasses, corn syrup.
  2. Sift together in small bowl: flour, baking soda, salt, ginger, cinnamon, cloves.
  3. Slowly add flour mixture to sugar mixture, stirring to blend. When it gets too stiff and floury to mix with the spoon, dump everything onto a large sheet of wax paper. Mix the ingredients with your hands. When it looks like dough (firm enough to shape), divide it and wrap it in two pieces of wax paper. Chill for two hours.
  4. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. (177 deg. C.).
  5. Grease cookie sheet or cover with aluminum foil.
  6. Unwrap one package of dough. Dip the rolling pin in flour and roll the dough out on a floured cutting board. If the dough sticks to the rolling pin, sprinkle it with more flour. If the dough sticks to your fingers, coat them with a tiny bit of shortening. Roll out the dough to 1/8 in. (3.18 mm) thick. (The thinner the dough, the crisper the cookies.)
  7. Turn the drinking glass upside down, dip it in flour, and press it into the dough to make a circle. Pull away the dough around the edge of the glass with your fingers. Lift up the glass. Then pick up the circle left behind and place it on the cookie sheet. Repeat, rerolling the dough if necessary, until the cookie sheet is filled (about 12 cookies).
  8. Bake 10 minutes.
  9. Let cookies cool for 5 minutes before removing from cookie sheet.
  10. When you finish with the first package of dough, repeat, using the second package.
  11. Makes 50 cookies.
  12. You can make icing for the cookies with the following mixture:
- ½ cup (120 ml) confectioner's sugar
  - 1 tsp. (5 ml) milk (add a few drops more to moisten mixture, if necessary)
  - 1 tsp. (5 ml) vanilla
  - dash of salt

Santa Claus: The "Real Story"

Santa Claus is probably America's most popular holiday figure. He has a white beard, a potbelly, and rosy cheeks. He dresses in a red and white suit and carries a sack of presents on his back. He lives in the North Pole, where he and his elf helpers make gifts all year round. Every Christmas Eve, he packs up his gifts and puts them in a sleigh. He hitches it to eight tiny reindeer. They pull him through the sky, and he lands on rooftops. Then he climbs down chimneys and leaves presents in stockings and under Christmas trees.

Clement Moore, the author of a poem called "A Visit from St. Nicholas," describes him as follows:

*He was dressed all in fur, from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack;*

*His eyes, how they twinkled! His dimples, how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry!
His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard of his chin was as white as the snow.*

This Santa Claus story is really a combination of legends that have appeared for sixteen hundred years. They all go back to Asia Minor, where a famous bishop named Nicholas lived in the fourth century. There are many stories about Nicholas's love for children. Once he brought three boys back to life who had been chopped up, salted, and stored in a barrel. Another time, he threw a bag of gold down a chimney for three unmarried girls who were very poor. (Perhaps this is why Santa Claus climbs down a chimney with his sack of gifts.) Nicholas was also famous for being able to stop storms at sea and prevent shipwrecks. He was loved by so many people that when he died, he was made a saint. He was called St. Nicholas and he watched over sailors, merchants, and children.

No one knows exactly how his good name spread from Asia to the rest of the world. Most people think it happened when some merchants in the eleventh century stole his bones and carried them to Bari, Italy. They built a large tomb and put St. Nicholas's bones on display. People from all over Europe could come and look at them. In those days, the bones of saints were considered very holy. Some people believed that they could even cause miracles. Men and women would travel for miles to see them. By the end of the Middle Ages, St. Nicholas was known everywhere. Four hundred churches were named after him in England alone.

His birthday was on December 6, and Christians celebrated it by holding a feast. They hoped that he would visit their homes on the night before. They thought that he'd come wearing the red and white robes and hat of a bishop and carrying a staff. They told children that if they behaved well, he'd leave them presents. But if they were naughty, he'd punish them. Sometimes, children were told he traveled with a scary figure who would carry out the punishment. One of these scary figures was called Diampus. Diampus looked like a shaggy monster. He had red eyes, horns, and a forked tongue. He dragged along chains behind him and rattled them when he was upset. Children were terrified of him.

Saint Nicholas's birthday is always celebrated in the Netherlands. Children leave out their wooden shoes on the eve of December 6, hoping that "Saint Nick" will fill them with sweets. They used to call him "Santa Niklaus," which became Sinter Klass," which finally became "Santa Claus" when the Dutch came to America. The Dutch settlers found it was easier to celebrate St. Nicholas Day in America on the same day as Christmas. That's why Santa Claus leaves presents on Christmas Eve instead of St. Nicholas Eve.

Santa Claus's home in the North Pole as well as his reindeer and elves probably date back to an old myth in Northern Europe. Thousands of years ago, people believed that the god Thor rode through the sky in a chariot pulled by reindeer. Snow and ice swirled around him as he stopped at houses for holiday dinners. The Northern Europeans also believed in elves or "tomtars" who had little beards and hid presents for children.

Sometimes, people get confused by seeing so many Santa Clauses at once. Some are standing on street corners, ringing bells and asking people to give money to the poor. Others are sitting in department stores, listening to children's wishes for presents. Still others are on television, telling about the many wonderful letters they've received from children asking for gifts. All of these Santa Clauses are jolly and kind, but they are only standing in the place of the real Santa Claus. The real Santa Claus is the Santa no one can see.

Americans look forward to the gifts Santa Claus leaves, but they also look forward to giving gifts of their own. As Santa Claus shows his love by leaving gifts, so people show their love by giving gifts to one another.

Christmas Eve In Our Village

PHYLLIS MCGINLEY

Main Street is gay. Each lampost glimmers, Crowned with a blue, electric star.
The gift tree by our fountain shimmers,
Superbly tall, if angular (Donated by the Men's Bazaar).

With garlands proper to the times
Our doors are wreathed, our lintels strewn.
From our two steeples sound the chimes,
Incessant, through the afternoon,
Only a little out of tune.

Breathless, with boxes hard to handle,
The grocery drivers come and go.
Madam the Chairman lights a candle
To introduce our club's tableau.
The hopeful children pray for snow.

The eggnog's lifted for libation,
Silent at last the postman's ring,
But on the plaza near the station
The carolers are caroling.

Christmas Greeting From A Fairy to a Child

LEWIS CARROLL

Lady, dear, if Fairies may
For a moment lay aside
Cunning tricks and elfish play,
'Tis at happy Christmas-tide.

We have heard the children say—
Gentle children, whom we love—
Long ago on Christmas Day,
Came a message from above.

Still, as Christmas-tide comes round,
They remember it again—
Echo still the joyful sound,
"Peace on earth, good-will to men!"

Yet the hearts must childlike be Where such heavenly guests abide;
Unto children, in their glee,
All the year is Christmas-tide!

Thus, forgetting tricks and play
For a moment, Lady dear,
We would wish you, if we may,
Merry Christmas, glad New Year!

That Holy Thing

GEORGE MacDONALD

They all were looking for a king
To slay their foes and lift them high:
Thou cam'st, a little baby thing
That made a woman cry.

O Son of Man, to right my lot
Naught but Thy presence can avail;
Yet on the road Thy wheels are not,
Nor on the sea Thy sail!

My how or when Thou wilt not heed,
But come down Thine own secret stair,
That Thou mayst answer all my need—
Yea, every bygone prayer.

The Nativity of Our Lord and Savior - Jesus Christ

CHRISTOPHER SMART

Where is this stupendous stranger,
Swains of Solyma, advise,
Lead me to my Master's manger,
Shew me where my Saviour lies?...

Nature's decorations glisten
Far above their usual trim;
Birds on box and laurel listen,
As so near the cherubs hymn.

Boreas now no longer winters
On the desolated coast;
Oaks no more are riv'n in splinters
By the whirlwind and his host.

Sprinks and ouzels sing sublimely,
"We too have a Saviour born";
Whiter blossoms burst untimely
On the blest Mosaic thorn.

God all-bounteous, all-creative,
Whom no ill from good dissuade,
Is incarnate, and a native
Of the very world he made.

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there.
The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugar-plums danced in their heads;
And mamma in her kerchief, and I in my cap,
Had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap—
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutter, and threw up the sash.
The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow
Gave a lustre of midday to objects below;
When what to my wondering eye should appear
But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer,
With a little old driver, so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick!
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled and shouted and called them by name.
"Now, Dasher! now, Dancer! now, Prancer and Vixen!
On, Comet! on, Cupid! on, Dunder and Blitzen!—
To the top of the porch, to the top of the wall,
Now, dash away, dash away, dash away all!"
As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle mount to the sky,
So, up to the housetop the coursers they flew,
With a sleigh full of toys—and St. Nicholas, too.
And then, in a twinkling, I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound:
He was dressed all in fur from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot:
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.
His eyes, how they twinkled! his dimples, how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry;
His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard on his chin was as white as the snow.
The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke, it encircled his head like a wreath.
He had a broad face and a little round belly
That shook, when he laughed, like a bowl full of jelly.
He was chubby and plump—a right jolly old elf;
And I laughed when I saw him, in spite of myself;
A wink of his eye, and a twist of his head,
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread.
He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk,
And laying his finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.
He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle.
But I heard him exclaim, ere they drove out of sight,
"Happy Christmas to all, and to all a good-night!"

Christmas In Italy

The Italians have a female Santa Claus called Lady Befana (the Italian word for "Epiphany"). She visits children on January 6 and leaves presents in their shoes if she thinks they've been good. If she thinks they've been bad, she leaves a piece of coal. Some parents tell their children that Befana will kidnap them if they don't behave.

There is an old story that when Christ was born, the Magi asked Befana to lead them to Bethlehem. She told them she was too busy sweeping out her house to help them. She was sorry later, and as a result, she is still roaming the earth, looking for the baby. Like Santa Claus, she climbs down the chimney, but unlike Santa Claus, she arrives on a broomstick.

The Italians also set up a creche or precepio in their homes and churches. They leave it empty until Christmas Day, when they add a baby (bambino) to stand for the Christ child. Families arrange the precepio under a ceppo—a wooden pyramid with shelves. Then they decorate the shelves with colored paper, cones, and candles. The ceppo is the Italian version of the Christmas tree.

On Christmas Eve the Italians enjoy a feast of noodles, pastries, and fish.

Christmas In Russia

Before the Russian Revolution in 1917, Russians celebrated Christmas with great joy. They danced and sang from Christmas Eve until Epiphany. Like the British, they had mumming parades. They dressed up in costumes and traveled from house to house, accepting small gifts.

At first, Christmas was linked closely to their winter solstice festivals. The Russians used to sing songs in honor of the harvest god, Kiyad. They hoped he would take care of their crops, and bring them a rich harvest in the spring.

Gradually, the holiday became focused on the birth of Christ. Instead of singing about the harvest, the Russians sang Christmas carols: On Christmas Eve, they strolled up and down streets, carrying "stars of Bethlehem" at the ends of sticks. They also went to a church service and shared a holiday meal at home. Special food was served, including a dessert of steamed wheat, raisins, and honey, called kutya. On Christmas Day, the Russians ate a large meal, at which a suckling pig was sometimes roasted.

The Christmas season ended with Epiphany. Children loved Epiphany because on Epiphany Eve, Babushka, a female gift giver, left them presents.

After the Russian Revolution, the Soviets banned Christmas. Today, only the Russians who go to the Eastern Orthodox Church have a religious celebration.

The Russians who don't go to church have combined some of the Christmas customs from the rest of the world with those of New Year's Day.

Christmas

dreamed of Santa Claus, or if we awoke in the night, we listened for the jingling of his sleigh-bells. At the peep of day we were aroused by the voice of my good grandfather, who planted himself in the stairway and shouted in a stentorian tone, 'I wish you all a Merry Christmas!' The contest was as to who should give the salutation first, and the old gentleman determined to get the start on us by sounding his greeting to the family before we were out of our rooms. Then came a race for the chimney corner; all the stockings came down quicker than they had gone up. What could not be contained in them was disposed upon t'ie mantelpiece, or elsewhere. I remember that I once received an autographed letter from Santa Claus, full of good counsels; and our coloured cook told me that she awoke in the night and peeping into the kitchen, actually saw the veritable old visitor light a candle and sit down at the table and write it! I believed it all as implicitly as I believed the Ten Commandments, or the story of David and Goliath....

The Christmas Creche

One of the nicest Christmas customs is the setting up of a creche during Advent. A creche is a man-made scene of the night when Christ was born in the stable at Bethlehem. A tiny figure of baby Jesus is placed in an open manger or crib—a small feeding box for cows and horses. Then figures of Mary, Joseph, the three Magi, shepherds, angels, and farm animals are arranged around the manger. The creche is set up under a Christmas tree or in some special place in the house. At church, it is displayed in a spot that can easily be seen by people walking by, or outdoors.

The word creche is the French word for manger. The French word probably comes from the Italian word greccio. Greccio was the town in which a famous creche was set up by St. Francis of Assisi in the thirteenth century. When Francis was alive, manglers were built in churches all over Italy at Christmas. Francis probably even visited the Church of Santa Maria Maggiore in Rome, where the very first manger was made in the fourth century. But many of these early church manglers were covered with gold, silver, and jewels. They were much fancier than the simple manger in which Christ was laid. Francis felt it was important for people to remember that Christ was born in a humble stable. In 1223 Francis asked a friend of his who lived in Greccio to take an ass, an ox, a manger, and some straw to a nearby cave. When this was done, Francis, the friars, and the local people met in the cave by candlelight on Christmas Eve. They acted out the story of Christ's birth. It must have been a very moving sight.

After St. Francis made the creche popular, it appeared in homes and churches all over the world. The custom didn't come to America until 1741 when the Moravians settled in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. They brought putzes or large, fancy creches with them from Germany. Their putzes sometimes had bridges, houses, fences, gardens, waterfalls, and even fountains. Today, the German-Americans in Pennsylvania still set up these remarkable creches at Christmas.

People from other nations also brought creches to America. They are now an important part of our Christmas season.

A Surprise For The Teacher

SAM LEVENSON

Three days before Christmas one year when I was teaching Spanish at Tilden High School in Brooklyn, New York, there was more than the usual commotion among my students. I overheard snatches of whispered exchanges, and I gathered that a "surprise" present for the teacher was being discussed surreptitiously—and somewhat anxiously.

I didn't know how to go about discouraging the customary display of Christmas spirit I knew they couldn't afford.

Finally, uncertain myself how to begin, I asked, "All right, kids, what's up?"

There was a long silence. At last, in the rear of the classroom, a timid little girl rose. "Mr. Levenson," she began, glancing around for encouragement in her decision, "we've got a problem...."

"Well, suppose you tell me about it, Gracie, and we'll see what's to be done."

Her words came pouring out. "It's your Christmas present, Mr. Levenson. We know just what we want to get you. We have it all picked out. And it's something you need. Except...."

"Except?" I asked hesitantly.

"Except, Mr. Levenson, we've only been able to raise three dollars and...." No one in the room moved. Gracie stared shyly at the floor and whispered, "It costs ten dollars."

I glanced around the class. All my students were sitting forward on their seats. It was a strange sight, for this was the only time during the entire term that my class gave me its undivided attention. There wasn't a face that didn't reflect Gracie's concern at the dilemma.

"Mr. Levenson," she said, "we feel very badly."

"We feel very bad," I corrected her absentmindedly.

"We hope you'll understand," she continued.

"Kids," I said, "the thought behind your gift actually means more to me than the gift itself. Your merry Christmas wishes are all...." I stopped in the middle of my sentence. From my desk I could see Gracie's eyes begin to fill with tears.

I couldn't find the words to discourage the class from buying its teacher a present. I rummaged through my pockets and counted out six dollars and a seventh in change. I walked over to Gracie's desk, put the money in her hand, and whispered in her ear, "You make a wonderful chairman."

Then the Christmas spirit overcame me. "Class is dismissed," I said.

After the room had emptied, I sat at my desk considering how I would raise the trolley fare to get home that evening. I had given the children my last pennies.

Suddenly Mr. O'Hara, the principal, walked into my room, looking at me quizzically. "Mr. Levenson," he said, "as I was coming up the stairs I was nearly bowled over by a pack of wild Indians. They wouldn't by any chance be your students, would they? I didn't hear the final bell."

Sheepishly I told Mr. O'Hara the whole story of my Christmas gift. He dipped into his wallet and handed me a dollar. "Here," he said. "Treat yourself to a taxi home."

Some Say...

Some say that ever 'gainst that season comes Wherein our Saviour's birth is celebrated,
The bird of dawning singeth all night long;
And then, they say, no spirit dare stir abroad,
The nights are wholesome, then no planets strike,
No fairy takes nor witch hath power to charm,
So hallow'd and so gracious is the time.

How Christmas Began

Christmas, the Christian holiday that celebrates the birth of Christ, takes place on December 25.

It is an exciting, happy day when family and friends gather together to exchange gifts and share a festive meal. At the beginning of December, people start wrapping presents, hanging wreaths and mistletoe, decorating evergreen trees with ornaments, and sending pretty cards to old friends. The kitchen is filled with the smells of cakes and breads being baked for a big meal on Christmas Day. Party dishes are taken out of storage, and Christmas music is heard everywhere. On Christmas Eve, children leave a snack for Santa Claus and his reindeer, and in some houses and towns, adults light a yule log. When the great day arrives, people flock to church to hear the story of Christ's birth read aloud, to pray, and to sing hymns and carols.

The story of the birth of Christ is in the part of the Bible called the New Testament. There it is written that before Christ was born, God sent an angel to Mary, a young woman who was getting ready to marry a carpenter named Joseph. The angel said: "And behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call His name Jesus. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest."

Because Mary believed in God, she believed the angel. She knew that God had picked her to be the mother of his son. She had the baby in Bethlehem and named him Jesus, just as the angel had told her to do. He was born in a stable because Mary and Joseph were unable to find room in an inn.

On the night Jesus was born, another angel appeared to shepherds in a field and said: "Fear not, for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you. Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."

The shepherds hurried to Bethlehem and found Mary, Joseph, and Jesus in the stable. The shepherds believed that Jesus was the son of God and left to tell everyone what they had seen.

On the same night, three Magi—men from Persia who studied the stars as part of their religion—saw a bright star in the East. They followed it to Bethlehem, where they found Christ lying in a manger. When they saw the baby, they gave him gifts and worshiped him.

Today, the Magi are also called "the three kings." But this term was not used widely until more than five hundred years after Christ's death.

Even though Christmas is celebrated on December 25, that date is not Christ's real birthday. No one knows the exact date of his birth. Many scholars believe that, before the fourth century, his birthday was honored on January 6 and called the Nativity. Also on that date, a festival, Epiphany, was held to celebrate Christ's baptism and the Magi's visit to the stable in Bethlehem. It wasn't until A.D. 353 that Pope Liberius in Rome declared December 25 a Christian holiday to mark the birth of Christ.

At that time, Rome was the center of the world. Roman armies had conquered many countries, including what are now the British Isles, Northern Africa, Spain, and the Middle East. Because the Romans ruled all these countries, the empire was made up of many different cultures and religions. Only a tenth of the people in the empire were Christian. The other nine-tenths were called "pagans" by the Christians. They celebrated their own festivals on or near December 25. Perhaps Pope Liberius moved the Nativity holiday up to December 25 so that Christians would not be tempted to join in the pagan festivals that occurred at the same time.

One of the most popular pagan festivals, Saturnalia, took place from December 17 until December 24. Since the fall crops were planted and autumn was drawing to a close, it was held in honor of Saturnus, the god of the harvest. Men and women, holding lighted candles, paraded through the streets in masks and costumes. Schools were closed, and people were allowed to gamble, which at other times of the year was against the law. Masters and slaves switched roles. The slaves picked a slave-king, "The Lord of Misrule," who ordered everyone, including the rich, to wait on him and perform games and tricks. The rich and poor gave each other gifts like candles, dolls, and holly branches. Everywhere, the pagans stopped work to celebrate this favorite holiday. Christians must have wanted to join the fun until the Pope gave them their own holiday.

Another pagan festival, Natalis Solis Invicti, fell on December 25. It was a feast for the "birth of the unconquered sun." It became very popular among the Roman soldiers when they conquered Persia in the middle of the first century. Mithras, a Persian sun god, was said to have slain a bull from which all life began. Mithras stood for goodness, justice and life everlasting. The Roman soldiers prayed to him to help them win battles. A feast in his honor was held on December 25 because it was the winter solstice—the time of year when days grew longer. People in ancient times believed this meant the sun was conquering darkness, just as Mithras had conquered the bull.

Besides Saturnalia and Natalis Solis Invicti, there was a pagan holiday called Kalends. It was a New Year's celebration that began on January 1 and lasted three days. The Romans decorated their houses with lights and plants. They gave special gifts to friends, children, and the poor. They believed that gifts of gold and silver brought wealth, lamps brought warmth, and honey brought luck. The Romans saved their money all year so they could spend it having a good time during Kalends.

Many of our most beautiful Christmas customs come from these ancient festivals.

Roast Goose With Potato Stuffing

Singe, remove pinfeathers, wash and scrub a goose in hot soapsuds; then draw (which is removing inside contents). Wash in cold water and wipe. Stuff, truss, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and lay six thin strips fat salt pork over breast. Place on rack in dripping-pan, put in hot oven and bake two hours. Baste every fifteen minutes with fat in pan. Remove pork last half-hour of cooking. Place on platter, cut string, and remove string and skewers. Garnish with watercress and bright red cranberries, and place Potato Apples between pieces of watercress. Serve with Apple Sauce.

A goose, having short legs, is trussed differently from chicken, fowl, and turkey. After inserting skewers, wind string twice around one leg bone, then around other leg bone, having one inch space of string between legs. Draw legs with both ends of string, close to back, cross string under back, then fasten around skewers and tie in a knot.

Potato Stuffing

½ cup butter. 2 cups hot mashed potato.
1 egg. 1½ cups soft stale bread crumbs.
1½ teaspoons salt. ¼ cup finely chopped fat salt pork
1 teaspoon sage. 1 finely chopped onion.

Add to potato, bread crumbs, butter, egg, salt, and sage; then add pork and onion.

Christmas Festivals!

Many foreign customs were brought to America by settlers. That's why the American Christmas is so special. It's really many Christmases rolled into one. It's a day when all Americans can share a common holiday.

If you know your family roots—or even if you don't—you and your family might enjoy visiting some ethnic holiday festivals. The ones listed below are based on the customs from "the old country."

ON THIS WONDROUS HOLIDAY
Let Us Pray Together in Church

(ST. LUKE 2:1-16)

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

(And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David:)

To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

An<sup>d</sup> she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

Glorify to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord had made known unto us.

And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

Girl Scouts Make Living Christmas Tree

By Mrs. Eugene T. Connors

Despite the uncertain weather, approximately 850 Girl Scouts of the Colonial Coast Girl Scout Council and their leaders gathered recently at Mt. Trashmore to form a Living Christmas Tree and offer holiday greetings to the community through song.

The tree was illuminated by the flashlights with colored paper carried by each girl.

Led by Mrs. Barbara Mettler and accompanied by Mrs. Peggy Holkinson, the girls sang "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," "Jingle Bells," "Deck the Halls," "Silent Night," "Frosty The Snowman," "Away in the Manger" and "We Wish You A Merry Christmas."

The tree was visible to cars traveling the Virginia Beach Expressway and to all in the vicinity. Ms. Carolyn Crump, a field director for the Girl Scout Council coordinated this annual event.

43 Kids Go Shopping

By Dan Vitez

The Virginia Beach Jaycees recently held its first annual Christmas shopping tour for 43 economically less fortunate first and second graders.

The program's objective was to give the children the opportunity to share in the spirit of giving this year.

The Jaycees took the children shopping for gifts for their families at two Virginia Beach department stores.

Each child spent an average of $23.00. Immediately following the shopping trip, the children were taken to a Christmas party hosted by Santa Claus and the Jaycees.

Exhausted Ladder Flies To City Council

Former Jaycee President, And Honoree,
Councilman Jennings Beholding To Jaycees

By Greg Goldfarb

Editor

City Councilman H. Jack Jennings, who represents the heavily populated Lynnhaven borough, said he would never have sought public office if he had never been a Virginia Beach Jaycee.

"Without question. Absolutely," the former Jaycee president and recipient of the coveted Outstanding Young Man of the State award. "I never would have, probably, even thought about making the commitment that is actually necessary to seek public office," if he hadn't joined the Jaycees in 1966, fresh from a three-year tour of duty in the Army.

Jennings, just like thousands of other Virginia Beach residents, joined the public service group of young men between the ages of 18 and 35 and found out early that, as the Jaycees say, "Young men can change the world."

By 1971 or '72, Jennings had worked himself up the ladder from being a general Jaycee member to director to finally president.

"We had a dynamite year that year," Jennings recalls, noting that the chapter grew from 100 to 180 members and had in its treasury in excess of $200,000.

Jennings, who at the time was also serving on the city's recreation commission, received word from the public that the city was in need of bicycle trails. Early indications were that people wanted the paths at Seashore State Park. Jennings said the Jaycees envisioned opposition from environmentalists and from the state. But the Jaycees have a hard time taking no for an answer, and "three months later we cut the ribbon," Jennings said.

Jennings Sure Council Size Will Decrease

Despite the controversy surrounding the question, Virginia Beach City Councilman H. Jack Jennings says he is sure that council size will eventually be reduced from 11 to nine or seven.

"This thing is going to happen," he said. "It's going to happen. It's inevitable. It's just a matter of timing."

Jennings has asked council to study the question of slimming down the size of the city's most important administrative body, but his call has met with mixed reactions. The city is now divided into seven boroughs of varying sizes. Jennings would replace them with five districts of equal populations, plus retain four at-large seats. Or, Jennings said, council could keep all 11 seats and erase the residency

Two Officers Promoted

Two Virginia Beach Police officers were recently promoted in ceremonies conducted by Police Chief Charles Wan. Promoted to lieutenant was Sergeant A.M. Jackocks.

Detective K. W. Stolle was promoted to sergeant. Wall said the officers were of the "very highest calibre."

Earl Tebault Named Top Pork Producer

Earl M. Tebault, a Blackwater Borough farmer and former Virginia Beach Vice-Mayor, was honored as the "Top Pork Producer Over 40" during the recent Virginia Pork Industry Conference. The award was recently presented by the Virginia Pork Industry Association at its convention in Williamsburg.

Tebault was twice elected to Virginia Beach City Council and served as vice-mayor from 1970 to 1972. He has owned his Blackwater Borough farm since 1957, and currently produces hogs, corn, soybeans and small grains.

Before buying his own farm, Tebault distinguished himself as the skilled livestock manager for Land of Promise Farm. Under Tebault's management, Land of Promise Farm developed outstanding herds of Hampshire hogs, Hereford cattle and Hampshire sheep. Breeding stock from this farm improved many herds in Princess Anne County and surrounding areas during the early 1950's.

Tebault is a charter member of the Tidewater Pork Producers Association, past Vice-President of the Virginia Beach Farm Bureau and past President of the Princess Anne's Lions Club.

He and his wife, Laura, have three daughters.

Home For Runaways Open In '84

The Mother Seton House, a community supported Virginia Beach center for runaway teenage girls, is scheduled to open in early 1984.

The House is designed to give short-term care and shelter to runaways and to help them move on to the next steps in their lives. It will be staffed with a director, social workers, a registered nurse and a cook. It is expected that the teenage girls will remain at the House for two weeks while they are helped in dealing with their problems and their families. Long-term plans are for the shelter to be extended to battered wives and their care.

The initial shelter will be located on Little Neck Road adjacent to the St. Nicholas Catholic Church. This shelter will service approximately twelve to fifteen children. The dwelling was purchased by the Rev. Walter F. Sullivan, Bishop of the Richmond Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church. He, in turn, has given the facility to the House.

The House will fill a void for those runaway and "throwaway"

ODU Honors Dr. Brickell

Dr. E. E. Brickell, left, superintendent of Virginia Beach Public Schools, recently received the Darden School of Education Distinguished Service Award from Dr. Ulysses L. Spiva, Dean of ODU's Darden School of Education. The award is presented annually to an individual who has made an outstanding contribution to education in Hampton Roads.

Dr. Brickell, superintendent of Virginia Beach schools since 1968, has served as president of the Virginia Association of School Administrators, and was the 1983 First Citizen of Virginia Beach. He also has served as rector of The College of William and Mary and currently serves on the Board of Visitors of that institution.

children who are not wards of the court, but need shelter. During 1982, there were 666 female runaways reported whose parents and guardians live in Virginia Beach; how many come to the area, especially during the summer months, is unknown to the juvenile authorities.

The support for this nondenominational program is becoming broad based with not only church, civic, and social welfare organizations behind it, but the professional and business communities as well. A review of the names of the members serving on the Board of Directors indicates the involvement of the total Tidewater community.

Mother Seton House will request a use permit for this facility the week of December 19th, and will begin its operations before March 1984.

Sunday Morning Bible Study

The message will be delivered by Pastor Junius E. Foster, Jr., and is entitled "The Holy Christ Child".

Get HELP

He was a drunk for 12 years and totaled three cars. Now he's stopped drinking and serves as executive director of Serenity Lodge in Chesapeake.

Brad Bradshaw was at the Virginia Beach Police Department recently to unveil this holiday season's newest effort to keep drunks off the roads during the yuletide season.

The "Holiday Ride For Sobriety" program encourages people who have had too much to drink to call a number for a free taxi cab ride home. Not to another bar or party, but home.

The program, sponsored by Serenity Lodge and R.A.I.D. (Report All Intoxicated Drivers) is designed not only to save lives but also to increase the public awareness.

"This is a means to avoid being arrested," Bradshaw said. "They (drunk drivers) can ride with us (the free cab ride) or they can ride with them (the police.)"

If you think you've had enough and don't want to drive, call 461-HELP or 543-6888.

It's free and it's smart.

Council Size

Jack Jennings will tell you up front that he was not elected to city council to sit back, loaf and "Let George do it!"

He is calling for a change in city council's size, a change championed before, and he is also in a position to push it even if there maybe just as many others in a position to push against it.

Jennings is right in saying that most people believe that a smaller council might be more efficient. No one has yet to produce, however, any authoritative data that a fewer number of people make better decisions. People don't know exactly why they feel a smaller council would be more efficient, other than that a few opinions, no one knows whose voices that would be, would be silenced as would their votes.

Jennings is sure that the public wants this question studied. Petitions, he says, are being circulated calling for a referendum on the question in the spring. But what the public wants and what council wants is two different things.

"I'm optimistic as far as the people are concerned," he said. "The people want the study. The council doesn't."

There are several formulas under which the council could redesign its boundaries and/or election procedures. The first thing that has to be done is try to determine if the council can agree that a change is in order.

Council will eventually tackle this tough question. But don't be impatient. It may take a while before anything is finally settled.

Elderly Break

It wasn't too long ago that legislators from the state's Silver Haired Legislature called for increased attention to and concern for senior citizens in the city.

The city has responded with a tax break program which increases income eligibility requirements and allowing the option of freezing their tax bills at current levels.

In an area where some cities don't offer any tax benefits for seniors, Virginia Beach's move is not only progressive and liberal, it is also humane and compassionate. And the move couldn't have come at a better time of the year: the holidays, when everyone counts their blessings and sings the praises of having their family and their health.

Refuge City

The Refuge City proposal might be a good idea, except it has elements which will snarl the discussions: the religious overtones, the magnitude of the project, its location and the timing.

If Rock Church officials can maintain a dialogue with city council without emotions overflowing on either side, maybe someday the facility could become reality.

But don't look for it tomorrow.

Raises

There has been little public outcry at council's 50% pay hike. But insiders at City Hall say city employees are concerned, to put it mildly.

Why, they ask, should council members get such a pay hike when they settle for smaller financial advances? Sounds like a fair question. Of course, city council members are not city employees, per se, in that they all have regular working hours and separate offices. They are city employees in that the payment they receive for their service to the city is paid for by taxpayers' money.

If council wants more money, fine. They deserve it, if for no other reason, for assuming responsibilities many locals residents would not. The argument follows that better pay will attract better council members.

'First, we go to your mother and stepfather's house. Then, we go to my father and stepmother's. Then, we go to your father and stepmother's, then to my mother and stepfather's. Your ex will pick up your kids there and bring them home tonight. On the way home, we leave my kids with my ex and pick them up tomorrow. I worked it out on the computer.'

Conductor, Newspaper Grow With Culturally Emerging City

Editor, The Virginia Beach Sun:

Thank you for the in-depth interview that appeared in the Dec. 7, 1983 issue of The Virginia Beach Sun. The emergence of the Virginia Beach Pops is still a miracle to me and I appreciate you helping me to "shout it from the rooftops."

In turn, I have watched the rise of your paper over the last six years. I know that its success is due to the day to day involved care of a devoted editor. The entire community appreciates your dedication and your presence within our culturally emerging city.

Mrs. Whitehurst Urges Support For New Arts Center

Editor, The Virginia Beach Sun:

In the more than 30 years that Bill and I have lived in this area change has been its most startling characteristic.

Some changes are taking place now that have captured the imagination of our entire community. A good case in point is the soon-to-be-realized dream of a new Arts Center, located in Virginia Beach. Business leaders, corporations and individuals have caught the fever for the arts and set to work to raise the needed funds without looking first to local, state, or federal governments for the seed funds to start.

Bill and I can't help but admire the kind of courage and what-can-I-do-to-improve-my-community attitude that has characterized this undertaking. But I want to tell your readers some things about the existing Center they may not already know.

I look at the Center as opportunity...a place where creativity is explored. There's a sense of discovery and adventure when we're placed in touch with the creative spark that lies within us, and through its class program the Center has helped countless young people fan that spark into a flame that may burn brightly for a lifetime.

But the Center is more than for young artists. It is also for other generations closer to yours and mine. Indeed, I've known friends well into their twilight years whose lives have been totally changed by that very same discovery. That is exciting!

Equally exciting, though, is the range of opportunities offered in class programs that include weaving and printmaking as well as ceramics, stained glass, photography, and painting. But it doesn't stop here. Thousands of residents and visitors come to the Center each year to be refreshed and challenged by

Hope You've Done All Your Christmas Shopping

Virginia Beach residents keep asking me if I've finished my Christmas shopping. Since I hope to be finished by January 1st I haven't time to answer them. In fact, if you have time to read this article, it's clear you're not my kind of Christmas shopper.

A couple of months ago the great idea of using the library's resources to select worthwhile presents occurred to me. (Actually, I started with the craft books last summer but somehow nothing got crafted.) I was going to find everything from the sturdiest appliance to the most effective perfume in Consumer Reports. For toys, I looked at Parent's Choice which reviews toys, games, records, computer software and other gifts for kids. Browsing through Publisher's Weekly helped me find just the right books for different tastes.

Fortified by all this research, I asked what everybody wanted for Christmas. My Aunt has already decided what perfume she thinks is effective. Everybody else wants clothes which are sure to be the wrong size, style, color or manufacturer. Besides, can you imagine Consumer Reports doing a "sturdiness" test on belts?

The upshot of all this is that I discovered a lot of neat items I wanted for Christmas but I'm no closer to getting all the presents bought. So, if you'll excuse me, I have to go shopping.

Thoughts On A Holiday

My older, and only brother fought in the Viet Nam War. Four years in the Navy. Truth of the matter is, although he did ride shotgun in a chopper over Nam and says he even fired his rifle, instructed, into the treetops, he spent three out of those four years teaching tennis to officers. I'm glad he's home for Christmas.

My brother had a top security clearance on his ship, a destroyer tender. His field was electronics and communication. It didn't mean that much to him.

...If a family member or a friend is away, think of them often. Remember the spirit. Light the torch of understanding.

He graduated high school in 1964. Mother says he had always wanted to be a sailor since he was a little boy. Never occurred to him, he said later, that they would put him on a ship.

He was stationed in California. Eighteen, nineteen years old. Running around San Diego, Long Beach. He had fun, I guess. I remember once, while I was still living home during elementary school or junior high, he called home real late one night. It's funny at what time someone feels the need to call home and talk to his family.

He always told me I should have gone into the service. He is 11 years older than I. He used to tell me that while I was in college. He quit telling me that a few years after I graduated. Then he went to college after the Navy. He married and went into business. He's been going to night school. Government pays for it. Soon he'll finish, with a BS in finance and economics. He's a smart guy. Wiser and more determined than most of us who grew up in the '70's.

My brother married on Christmas day about 10 years ago. He doesn't talk much about world affairs now, although certainly he understands them much better than he lets on. He dearly loves his wife. His parents. His Bassett Hound.

He works hard, in a managerial position on a local military base. He says the government could save more money.

My brother has a clear eye, a steady hand, and an unflappable mind.

War is a mindless game. He says he doesn't regret his military experience, but would not line up to do it again.

If your family is safe at home this holiday season, be thankful. And if a family member or a friend is away, think of them often. Remember the spirit. Light the torch of understanding.

Happy Holidays.

Young Men Can Change The World

Jennings

Jennings, as a Jaycee, said he was also responsible for moving the Jaycees' East Coast Surfing Championship, then called a contest, from the old steel pier at the south end of the resort strip to Camp Pendleton. But that wasn't enough. The Jaycees wanted to allow public surfing there year around and threatened to get the General Assembly to open the camp as a state park.

Jennings remembers the base general calling, asking, "Now what is it Jack that we can do to kinda work this thing out?" Soon after that Jennings formed the Virginia Beach Surfing Advisory Council, which meets every month.

By Jennings' own admission, he was a young "wet-behind-the-ears" kid in his late 20's who believed that with the small amount of clout he had behind him as Jaycee president and with the group behind him, that the organization, which began many years ago as a junior chamber of commerce, can accomplish about anything.

"The Jaycees are a unique group of young men who do not believe the older generation, or their senior members of society," Jennings said. "When the Jaycees come up with an idea they take it to those senior members and they say, 'oh no. It can't be done. You're wasting your time. You're spinning your wheels.' Well, the Jaycees are a cut, that they say, 'oh yeah? Fine. Can't be done, huh? You're telling me we can't do it?' And then, three months later it happens. It's done. It's finished!"

Jennings, now 44, an exhausted roster as the Jaycees would call him, is a life member of the Virginia Beach Jaycees. He has been named as the Jaycees' Outstanding Young Man of Virginia Beach and also as one of five Outstanding Young Men in Virginia.

Jennings recalls the experience. "That was a very humbling experience," he said. "You talk about bringing a tear to your eye? When you stand there and they present a plaque almost as big as you are."

Jennings challenges the Beach Jaycees to seek out even more deserving people in the community to recognize.

"Any form of recognition that anyone receives is a very sobering, thought-provoking experience," Jennings said. "You ask yourself, 'why me? How in the world does this happen to me? Something this magnificent?' You do a lot of introspection. I really believe it is a time for rededication."

After Jennings saw the impact one person can have, on his or her community, it opens his eyes to public service.

"It was at that point that I decided that I wanted to run for city council," he said. "I did want to make a difference because I had seen as a Jaycee that I could make a difference in my community. Just a young, wet behind the ears 26 or 27 year-old kid. To be able to make those type of accomplishments; you know, with the other guys helping me. It's the power young men do have when they band together. Because they know no fear."

Jennings said many people forget that the now famous Neptune Festival was an outgrowth of the Jaycees. But because of the Jaycees' involvement with the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, it became a chamber project.

The way the Neptune festival was originally designed, Jennings said, "was to recognize people that made that really special commitment" to the community.

The Jaycees conduct numerous projects throughout the year, many of them benefiting those less fortunate, and the local community.

"If there were no Virginia Beach Jaycees there would be a terrible void in the life and growth of the city of Virginia Beach," Jennings said. "It is the very best training ground that a young man can ever hope to become involved with. The beautiful part of it is that he can do it while still pursuing his lifelong career ambition. The two go love in hand."

Jennings Says People Want Issue Studied

requirements and all council members would be elected at-large.

"There's a lot of interest in this issue; a lot of interest," Jennings, who is councilman for the 90,000 population Lynnhaven borough said. "The people that have talked to me are all very upset that council voted 7-4 not to have a study."

Jennings believes that an 11-member council is too large.

"It's too many, in a sense, in that it's very difficult to come to consensus or to an agreement," he argues. "It opens the door for factional divisiveness. It gets everybody upset at one time or another. It promotes disharmony. It does not promote a team working together concept."

Jennings also says the city should adhere to a "one man, one vote" concept of electing officials. Jennings maintains that serving on council is very time consuming, even with 11 members. "Would reducing the size of council lead to more pressure on the working members?"

"Well, no," Jennings said. "It's difficult for me to answer that. Most members of council are as busy as I am. There are a few that aren't, don't want to be and never will be. And don't care to be. Others take the position very seriously and strive to do the best job they can."

Jennings discounts claims that his reason for reducing council size is to unleash growth.

"People want to see this matter studied and studied carefully," he said. "My motivation, being to open up the southern reaches of the city to growth, is totally asinine."

"As soon as someone comes up with an idea, that's a good idea," Jennings continued, "that they know has support, the way they torpedo it and shoot it down is by saying, 'well, that's just so they can continue the growth spiral. So they can open the southern reaches of our pristine, undisturbed city to growth.' That's demagoguery."

A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL

The Lighter Side...Social

The "Prettiest Wrappings"

Every Christmas Santa drops down chimneys thousands of packages of all shapes and sizes. How is it then, that they are so beautifully wrapped on Christmas morning?

Kei McMillin, an artist and gift wrapping expert at American Greetings, says that it takes only a little imagination to make the present's wrapping a source of excitement and anticipation. "When wrapping a gift, I look at the shape of the container or box it comes in," she says. "Sometimes there are several small boxes—like in a set of bubble bath, powder and cologne. Wrapping each box individually as part of one theme makes the gift more exciting.

"For example, if the box is a cylinder, like cologne is often packaged, it might make the engine of a train. Wrap it in a plain paper, using a button for the front. Snowflake stickers can be used for wheels," says Ms. McMillin. "The engine cab is another box, and it can be wrapped in a matching paper and decorated with a snowman engineer waving from the window."

"The box cars that follow can be wrapped and decorated almost any way your imagination can dream up," she continued.

"Decorating a rectangular box is easiest, because it can become almost anything," she continued. "Three triangles cut from a white or silver paper doily can be layered to make a delicate Christmas tree. Another idea is to cut plain red and green papers into the shapes of petals and leaves, and curl them around a pencil to make a poinsettia; use bits of ribbon rolled into tiny knots to make the centers."

who are interested in learning how to wrap packages more creatively. "I try to wrap each present so that the receiver will take a few seconds to look at the pretty papers," she says.

"Children are usually so excited that they rip right into a present, so I try very hard to keep up with the things they are interested in, and I work those trends into the gift wrapping design," she continued. This year Ms. McMillin is working stickers—called "smellies" and "shinies"—into some of the designs adding them to a snow scene surrounding a paper snowman.

"There are always bits and pieces of ribbon and paper left on the ends of rolls," she says. "Narrow green ribbon can be curled and attached to a straw or toothpick to make a Christmas tree to stand on top of a box."

What's inside? Three guesses. American Greetings artist, Kei McMillin, says that stopping to admire creative gift wrappings before opening a present helps to build holiday excitement.

Ms. McMillin says that she receives many inquiries from women

She also suggests cutting remnants into the design of a streetlamp with a candle inside to accompany the figure of a Caroling girl; then glue everything to the front of the package.

"Everyone wants the packages that have the prettiest wrappings," says Ms. McMillin. "When they pause to look at the decorations, the hesitation to tear it open also helps to build excitement for the present inside."

The Grand Illumination

The Grand Illumination of the Historic Area on December 15 marked the official opening of the Christmas season this year in Colonial Williamsburg. In preparation for the annual celebration, both the Historic Area and Merchants Square were decorated with fresh greens and other natural materials, and visitors and shoppers alike were invited to enjoy the flavor of Christmas colonial-style. The two-week Christmas season here is marked by daily concerts, special events and other Historic Area diversions. The Colonial Games, during which families can try their hands at penny-pitching, barrel-rolling, sack races and other competitions, are scheduled for December 23 and 28 behind the Governor's Palace. The holiday exhibition, "The Joys and Toys of Christmas," will be shown in the Abby Aldrich Rockefeller Folk Art Center through January 1.

Pyle Looks Back

By ROGER PYLE

I am harkening, not so fondly back, to the Christmas of 1981. For almost the entire year I had been making my way to the Subdivision and, at that Christmas, the snow was high around the door of the model. The interest rates were even higher! Home buyers were more scarce than preformed Scrooge's Christmas gifts. Unemployment was rampant-money, enterprise, nor projects were moving. It was a bleak time but we got through it. I look around today and see many laborers driving nails, wielding trowels and many homebuyers shopping for the best location and the best product. I am very grateful for the combination of events that got us through those bleak times, not the least of which was the hard working Real Estate person, and I am thankful for the comparative good times that we now enjoy.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Rock Church Must Postpone

By Lee Cahill
Council Reporter

The Rock Church will have to postpone its divinely-inspired City of Refuge in rural Virginia Beach.

Despite the outpouring of support from approximately 600 persons who overflowed the Council Chambers Monday afternoon, filling up the corridors, City Council turned down by a vote of 7-3 rezoning applications and use permits that would have made the refuge possible.

The refuge, which church community leaders say is inspired by God, was planned for an 802-acre tract in the Princess Anne Borough. It was well within the agricultural area which the city has reserved for agricultural uses and on the wrong side of the line marked by Indian River Road which divides the city's development area from its agricultural area.

The denial was based on the prematurity of the application and the contention that the establishment of water and sewer in the area would open up the agricultural portion of the city to development.

Councilwoman Reba McClannan abstained because of her financial interest in neighboring property. Voting against the application were Councilman H. Jack Jennings Jr., Councilman Harold Heischberger and Councilman Dr. J. Henry McCoy Jr. McCoy initially made a motion to approve the applications, seconded by Jennings, with Baum making a substitute motion to deny the applications. McCoy withdrew so that Heischberger could make a substitute compromise motion to the denial motion when it became the main motion.

His motion was to grant a use permit to the church with its necessary appurtenance with water and sewer while denying the other requests, so that the church, which is based in Kempsville, McCoy's Borough, could get started.

The substitute motion failed by a 7-3 vote with Jennings, McCoy and Heischberger dissenting.

The discussion on the applications lasted a couple of hours with all but one of the speakers favoring approval. However, the Planning Commission also recommended denial of the applications.

Melvin Eaton, of West Landing road, spoke against the applications. He said his property is adjacent to the proposed City of Refuge, and that after living in a rural community the idea of having 25,000 people next door was frightening. He said the Rock Church is a great organization, but that as an individual along with his neighbors he was frightened by the heavy influx of people, new development and additional houses. He recommended following the city's Comprehensive Plan and keeping the community rural. His talk was met by applause by approximately ten to 15 people among the audience.

Council Approves Raises

Virginia Beach City Council Monday evening voted itself salary increases which will make it the highest paid Council in the state starting July 1.

The increases are for $14,000 for the mayor and $12,000 for the Council members, the highest allowable for cities of 200,000 and over under the Virginia Code.

Maybe it was editorial support of the increase as well as some public support. Maybe it was the hour - 7 p.m. - on a Council day that had started with an informal session at 11 a.m. Whatever the reason, Council was Christmas-jovial about approving the increase after the preliminary attempt of Councilman John A. Baum to provide a rational basis for the raise. He said that in 1970 the Council salary was $4,800 and although an increase was granted - to $10,000 and $8,000 - in 1981, real income amounted to only $4100 and now this real income has eroded to $3500.

Councilman Robert G. Jones, an attorney, pointed out that Council could, contrary to earlier reports, make the raises effective on Jan. 1.

Baum said he hesitated to do that. Jones, looking at the clock, said, "I'm voting on behalf of my wife and children."

Councilman Dr. J. Henry McCoy Jr., who has been twice-married, said, "I'm voting on behalf of both of mine."

Baum said he did not think the majority of the people cared how much or if the Council got paid, but he said he hated for the action to be interpreted as something Council "snuck up on them before Christmas."

By the time the action was taken only a few persons remained in the Council Chambers which had been packed earlier with crowds extending to the corridors.

"When did you get so virtuous, John?" asked McCoy. Jones moved to make the increase effective Jan. 1 with McCoy seconding the motion. It lost by a vote of 6-5 with dissenters including Baum, Harold Heischberger, Barbara Henley, W.H. Kitchin III, Reba McClannan and Meyers Oberndorf.

The increases effective July, were approved by a vote of 9-2 with Henley and Oberndorf dissenting. At last week's meeting Baum pointed out that the salaries were not appropriate for a Council running the biggest city in the state. Council has four regular meetings a month, numerous work sessions and special meetings. No special provisions are made to assist Council with its paper work and correspondence although the mayor has an office and a secretary. Even Oberndorf, who voted against the increase, pointed out that other northern Virginia communities had a staff for Council members.

VIRGINIA BEACH PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECTS ON THE ENVIRONMENT

Notice is herein given that the City of Virginia Beach has conducted an environmental review and has made a FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECTS ON THE ENVIRONMENT for the Seateck Utility/Street Improvements for a townhouse project. The City's cost for the utility/street portion of this townhouse project is being funded through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) with Jobs Bill funds. The Jobs Bill funds have been earmarked for cities to provide services and employment to primarily the unemployed and low and moderate income persons. The funds are being administered locally by the City's Office of Housing and Community Development Program.

SCOPE OF THE TOWNHOUSE PROJECT

The proposed townhouse development consists of ten (10) one-bedroom, 25 two-bedroom, and 50 three-bedroom units (of one and two stories high) which are planned to be sold at a cost between $31,000-$42,000. The lower cost of the townhouse units will be the result of the City providing water, sewer and street improvements for the site at a cost of $329,500. The builder will establish his own line of credit for the construction of the project and the permanent financing will be made by the Virginia Housing Development Authority (VHDA).

PURPOSE OF THE UTILITY/STREET ACTIVITY

The City is providing utility/street improvements to the proposed townhouse site which is located in the Seateck community near the intersection of Virginia Beach Boulevard and South Birdneck Road. The utility/street improvements will accomplish the following:

1. Improve the townhouse site to provide for the construction of housing which is affordable by low and moderate income persons pursuant to 24 Code of Federal Regulation (CFR) 570.201 (c);

2. Provide the availability of housing for low and moderate income residents who reside in dwellings (within Seateck and other areas of the City) which are unfeasible for housing rehabilitation because their home is structurally or economically unfeasible to improve up to the minimum housing code requirements of the City and the Housing Rehabilitation Standards of the City's Office of Housing and Community Development Program; and to generally

3. Provide housing for low and moderate income families, the elderly, and the handicapped needing one, two and three-bedroom units.

FUNDS

The City proposes to request from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) through a REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

ADVERTISEMENT AND CERTIFICATION that $329,500 be released from the City's Jobs Bill fund allocation.

FINDING

The proposed site is located in a high noise zone area with a small corner of the site located in the lowest accident potential zone (APZ "C") as defined by the Oceana Naval Air Station Air Installation Compatible Use Zone (AICUZ) material. Measures will be built in accordance to HUD's Noise Abatement Program in order to reduce the noise impact of the NAVY planes on the site location. On the basis of the analysis of the environmental assessment, there are no significant environmental impacts with the proposed activity.

OTHER FINDINGS

From the City's review to date, the Seateck Utility/Street Improvement townhouse activity:

1. Will have no adverse impact on the geological, cultural, archaeological, architectural or historical aspects of the Seateck community;

2. Will not be adversely affected by a flood plain, coastal zone or wetlands area;

3. Will not adversely disrupt wildlife; and

4. Will not create an air and water quality problem.

Pursuant to Section 104(h) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, amended as of 1977, and the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (Public Law 91-190), an Environmental Review Record has been prepared for the Seateck Utility/Street Townhouse Project which may be examined at the Office of Housing and Community Development, 302 22nd Street, Virginia Beach, Virginia 23451, between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, except on City holidays. Written comments on the above environmental review record will be received by Benjamin C. ## HELP!!!

We need a witness (or witnesses) who saw or have knowledge of a woman riding on the hood of a 1977 white Chevrolet late Saturday afternoon, April 26, 1983. This occurred in front of Timberlake Shopping Center on Independence Blvd. and resulted in a very serious brain injury to the woman. The car was being driven by a 28 year old dark haired man with a moustache. The car journeyed approximately 1 to 2 miles, from Smokey Lake Drive in the Lakeside area, north on Independence Blvd. and proceeded east on Holland Road, where he slammed on the brakes at the stoplight at Timberlake Shopping Center. Please call Confidential Reports at 497-1863 if you have any information regarding this accident.

'The Devil Takes Care Of His Own'

Mary Lord, 100 On Dec. 23, Wants Good Health In 1984

By Greg Goldfarb
Editor

Mary Daniel Lord, on her 100th birthday, looked particularly radiant. Her lightly powdered face glowed with a warm crimson hue, much to the envy of the blushing holly berries chilling on the branch outside.

Mary was noticeably excited the day before the staff at Medicenter, a nursing home on First Colonial Road where she is a four-year resident, threw her a birthday party. Mary was dressed for the occasion and her spirits were high. Even her hair, like silky swirls of cotton candy, floated around her head as if combed by caroling angels.

"I was a little Christmas present," Mary recalls, proud of the fact that her natal day falls on Dec. 23, just two short days before Christmas.

Combining the two joyous occasions, Mary's birthday program included remarks and letters of recognition by State Senator A. Joseph Canada, Councilman Harold Heischouer and Delegate Buster O'Brien. Mary was also presented a nine square-foot Christmas card signed by the Medicenter staff.

For Mary, every day is a holiday and every meal a feast. That is, as long as she has her health. Besides a family member living in Virginia Beach,

"The main thing is to be healthy and well. I see some invalids and think how fortunate I am at my age to be able to get around." - Mary Lord her health, not holidays, is the most important aspect in her life.

"I don't suppose Christmas has changed. I have changed," she said softly.

Mary was born in 1983 in Remington, VA. She married James Lord in Washington, D.C. in 1911. They were married 57 years until his death in 1968. Most of those years were spent in New Jersey and New York where Lord was a Wall Street accountant, Mary said. Mary moved to Virginia Beach around 1970. She was mugged by a purse snatcher in 1973 and suffered a broken arm at the age of 90. Mary's only closest family is her nephew Louis A. Daniel, Virginia Beach.

Takes Care Of His Own

Mary has seen many birthdays, Christmases, New Year's and U.S. presidents, including witnessing the inaugurations of Teddy Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson. She was born during the presidency of Chester A. Arthur who took office after James A. Garfield was shot.

She's not concerned now much about world affairs or politics. In fact she's not even concerned about her birthday.

Free Planetarium Program

Questions Of The Cosmos

The Virginia Beach City Public Schools' free planetarium program for January will be "Questions of the Cosmos."

This program is composed of six astronomy-related topics that remain a puzzle to scientists. Theories of where the moon came from are discussed, and the most acceptable ones reemphasized. The puzzle of the extreme tilt of the axis of Uranus is covered. How did it settle into a position where its axis is tilted nine degrees below its plane of orbit?

Another question is what really caused the trees to flatten for five miles around the area of the Tunguska forest in Russia in 1908? Was it meteor, comet, spaceship, or atomic explosion? Also included in the program are discussions of cosmic rays, quasars, and the question of where it all began.

Program Times: Sundays, 7 to 8 p.m., Jan. 8, 15, 22, and 29. Tuesdays, 7 to 8 p.m., Jan. 3, 10, 17, 24, and 31.

There will not be a program on Sunday, Jan. 1, 1984.

The planetarium seats 120 people and is easily accessible from the Route 44 toll road by taking the Lynnhaven Exit (Exit 5) to the Lynnhaven Parkway and turning right at the first street - South Lynnhaven Road - to Plaza Junior High School, where the planetarium is located.

Telephone the main office at Plaza Junior High School, 486-1971, for reservations. Children under age 12 may be refused admission unless accompanied by a mature person.

A crowd gathers before the ceremonies

New Library Site Dedicated

Virginia Beach Mayor Louis R. Jones and Public Library Board Chairman Jack H. Robertson recently conducted site dedication ceremonies for the city's forthcoming $11.1 million central library.

As the ceremonies, held on a cold, wet afternoon on the edge of Virginia Beach Boulevard on Kirkwood Lane adjacent to Lochman's Plaza, Virginia Beach Library Director Martha J. Sims gave the welcoming remarks.

Architect for the library is The Design Collaborative, Virginia Beach. Construction is to begin in Jan., 1985 and end by Dec. 1986.

The library will be a multi-story building with 90,000 square feet. It will house 400,000 books and related resources.

Beach Legislators Announce January Public Hearing

Virginia Beach legislators will hold a public meeting on Monday, Jan. 9 at 7:30 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting is to give Virginia Beach residents an opportunity to convey their concerns to the legislators for consideration during the upcoming

General Assembly Session.

The meeting will be held in the School Board Room (Rm. 131), School Administration Building, at the Virginia Beach Municipal Center.

Phobic Program Need 100 Volunteers For Research

The Phobia Program of Tidewater needs 100 phobic persons to volunteer to answer questionnaires. Participation is anonymous.

For more information call Lisa Zocco, Phobia Program of Tidewater, Pembroke II, Suite 135, Virginia Beach, Va. 23462. Phone, 490-8806.

VB Association For Gifted And Talented Meets

The Virginia Beach Association for the Gifted and Talented will meet at Old Donation Center on Tuesday, Jan. 17, at 7:30 p.m.

The program will focus on the topic "Parenting the Gifted." A workshop format will be used to allow an in-depth investigation of several areas related to this topic. The program will be preceded by a brief business meeting.

Keep It On The Road

This is how not to end up over the holidays. Be careful of dimly lit, deep ditches. The driver of this car was not identified.

Farmer's Market Will Remain Open For Winter

The Virginia Beach Farmer's market, located at the intersection of Princess Anne and Landstown Roads, will continue to be open through the winter months. Farmer's Market vendors sell fresh produce, baked goods, choice meats, dairy products and various plants to consumers.

The winter hours for vendors from January through

Crime Solvers Seek Information On Burglary

The Virginia Beach Crime Solvers Program is seeking information about an armed robbery that occurred Nov. 28 at the Sav-A-Ton Gas Station in the 3500 block of Holland Road.

At 11 p.m. that Monday night, the attendant on duty was counting packages of cigarettes with his back to the service window, when he heard someone tap on the glass. As he turned, he found a man standing at the window with an automatic handgun pointing at him. The man then threw a bag through the opening in the window and told the attendant to put the money in the bag or he would shoot him. The robber also demanded two packages of cigarettes. After getting both the money and cigarettes, he ran around the northwest corner of the building.

The robber was described as a 17-19 year old white male, 5'2" tall, 110-115 pounds, with dark brown hair. He had a thin nose, small mouth, acne on both cheeks, and spoke with a southern drawl.

Anyone with information about this or any other robbery is asked to call Crime Solvers at 427-0000. Callers are eligible for cash rewards of as much as $1,000 when an arrest is made.

The Crime Solvers Program pays cash for information about any crime and for information that leads to the arrest of wanted people or the recovery of drugs and stolen property. Names need not be given to collect the rewards, nor do callers ever have to testify in court.

Yawn

Hats off, or lights on, rather, to Virginia Wesleyan College's scheduling of classes beginning at 6:30 yawn a.m.

Rising with the sun can be a profound experience, if the rise is of sufficient mind and body to tackle the day head on. Others find that time of day, or night depending on how you look at it, with their eyes closed and usually do not wish to be disturbed at that hour for anything, much less to go to class.

The early morning classes reflect several things, including a lifestyle that is lengthening itself to allow for more personal growth and achievement. Some say night school students are the best because they come to learn, even if they've already put in an eight hour or more day. Chances are that the sunrise students will also be achievers, driven by an inner motivation that compels them to begin the day with knowledge.

The other thing is, morning classes allows those people who literally do not have enough time to in the day to do what they need, another chance to do a little more.

It's Cold

Virginia Beach motorists are basically pretty conservative. Rain brings drivers to a snail's pace. Snow brings traffic to a halt. Now we've got Arctic Temperatures.

At 0 degrees, nothing wants to move. Not people, animals, cars or even the moon. Someone said, that if it gets cold enough the moon will freeze in the sky and it'll be dark forever. Unlikely, but it serves to illustrate that the cold can impose hardships on many things.

During these record cold days, and during a time when there seem to be flashes of compassion bursting through the clouds of despair for those less fortunate, it is amazing that people in the U.S. freeze to death. We know there are those who starve to death because they can't get food. But can't anybody open their doors to people who, maybe have food, but have nowhere to sleep and brave the cold. These people don't need cheese and butter, they need roofs and blankets.

Books

It's official. Virginia Beach is on its way to having its own central library.

It's been approved by the city but it wasn't until right before Christmas that the ribbon was cut marking the construction site. Balloons flew and optimism waved in the wind, despite the cold weather and dampness.

Libraries are like planetariums and book stores. A person can become lost in them. In fact, visiting the library can become addicting. Once ye has tasted from the fountain of learning, thy thirst shall naught be satisfied, or something like that. But even if the quest for knowledge is not the impetus for lingering in the library, certainly the serenity and vastness of the educational arena is.

Much to our pleasure, and even more to the Beacon's we trust, the new library will be conveniently located on Virginia Beach Boulevard, about midway between Pembroke Mall and Rosemont Road, and the Sun Building.

Anyone who ever spent any time in a college library can probably remember one or two stories about who met who behind there.

Virginia Beach's new $11 million library won't be like that. After all, it won't stay open late during exams. Or will it? And it won't close for weeks at a time during the holidays.

Drunks

It's time for New Year. Time to take care and pay special attention to your home and family. And oh yes, you'll be told time and time again not to drink and drive. But as sure as the sun rises, some readers will tempt the odds.

Adults are adults and repeated warnings will do little to modify traditional behavior. Unfortunately, social drinking and alcoholism become as socially acceptable as cigarette smoking, another deadly habit.

If society is really serious about the drunk driving problem, hike up the price of booze and stiffen the penalties for offenders. When logic and reason can't reach some people, kick them in the pocketbook. It's worth a shot.

Happy Birthday

President Reagan telephoned Susie Brunson last weekend to congratulate her on her 113th birthday. The New Jersey resident told Reagan that his life expectancy will be determined by God, not by him.

Virginia Beach's Mary Lord is only 100. Reagan didn't call to wish the Virginia Beach resident.

happy birthday, but certainly the Virginia Beach community wishes it to her.

The reason Brunson was lucky enough to receive a presidential call is that according to the U.S. Census she is the nation's oldest living person.

Lord didn't receive a call this year, but who knows in 1984?

Things That Go Bump

While getting ready for the holidays this year I stumbled across what I thought was a very strange tradition...that of telling ghost or horror stories on Christmas Eve. After contemplating this new found fact, I realized that I actually knew very little about the whole genre of horror literature. Luckily, the library owns a wonderful book of bibliographic essays on the subject called "Horror Literature: a Core Collection And Reference Guide" (Bowker Co., 1981). This reference book, edited by Marshall Tymn, has been a great help in sorting through the tangled maze of haunted castles and monsters from the deep (whether it be the sea or the mind).

"Horror Literature" begins by trying to define the boundaries of the genre. Tymn, in his preface, gives the following clear and concise definition:

"The essence of horror fiction is fear and terror -- manifested in the dread of unknown forces. One type of horror, the psychological, makes use of implied situations, in which the fear is totally in the mind (the terms weird and macabre are used to describe this type). In physical horror, the threat of bodily harm or the menace of death cause a terror that often paralyzes the intended victim. In the broadest sense, these two types represent the major branches of horror of fiction."

The various contributors to the book then go on to break the literature into a number of chronological categories. They begin with gothic romances written between 1762 and 1920. These novels, which dominated the fiction writing of that period, are now generally quite rare and difficult to locate. The author defines gothic romances as "a violently destructive or sadomasochistic fantasy of the multiple self, in which various hypothetical personalities or repressed and unwanted identities are released into an architectural dream collage in which anything can happen and usually does." Some of the more popular examples of this type of fiction are Jane Austen's "Northanger Abbey" and Sir Walter Scott's "The Bride of Lammermoor."

The next period of horror literature has been dubbed the "Residual Gothic Impulse." It was the age of Victorian realism and the genre moved in the same direction as general novels written from 1824 to 1873. Instead of damsels in distress, in dark and gloomy castles, authors of this period concentrated on psychological fear. "Wuthering Heights," "A Christmas Carol" and the works of Edgar Allan Poe are examples of this type of fiction.

The late 19th and early 20th century has been dubbed the golden age of horror literature because of the quantity and quality of works published during this era. Ambrose Bierce, Joseph Conrad, Henry James, Guy de Maupassant, Robert Louis Stephenson, Bram Stoker, H.G. Wells, Edith Wharton and Oscar Wilde are some of the literary giants that wrote horror stories around the turn of the century. The stories no longer have gothic props and are usually placed in everyday settings. "Thematically, they represent the first serious attempt to abandon the Gothic villain who gets his just deserts in favor of the innocent victim who is mysteriously or randomly persecuted by demons who refuse to be exorcised."

The horror literature of the modern period has again directly reflected the tenor of the times. The works published since World War I have concentrated on a "...cosmic and psychological horror...reminding us that...we must always face the dark." It is a literature of conscious reflection, containing elements of all previous horror and gothic literary movements. Shirley Jackson, H.P. Lovecraft, Thomas Tryon and Stephen King have all authored popular works typical of the period.

Through the book "Horror Literature" I have discovered that there is much more to the genre than just things that go bump in the night. If you would like to learn more about the subject or read some of the authors and their works listed in this article, visit one of the Virginia Beach Public Libraries. I think we can arrange for at least one sleepless night.

Hogwild Is Hogwash

Refuse to write anything in support of the Redskins. It's not that I don't like them, it's just that I'm sick of hearing and reading about them.

Because there is a large number of northern Virginia residents living in Tidewater, it is to be expected that the Skins would be the area's most popular team. But all this hogwild stuff is hogwash. (I hope pro-Skin readers will indulge me and not leave link sausage hanging in protest on my office door).

How can you get all worked up over a team that places at its hoof of glory the title of The Hogs? Come on. Hogs aren't big. They're not tough. They're sure not smart or good looking or rich. Why do these linemen want to be known as pigs? Because, you say, they get down in the trenches, in the pig pens of football, and snort and scratch and fight for the ball. Well, that's fine. But pigs don't fight for food. In fact they don't do much but snort, spit and eat garbage. And out of fairness of true blooded hogs, how much more cruel can it be to know that the men so exalted are kicking, throwing or busting one of their pigskin brothers.

Washington's basketball team is the Bullets. That's weird also, considering the city shutters when the word assassination is uttered. But bullets are fast, sleek and supposedly deadly shooters. The name goes with the team, although not exactly with this year's losing team.

Consider again the name, Redskins. Such a name in an area which has a history for fighting the Indians for survival. So how does D.C. honor the tribes that killed and burned our past ancestors? Name a football team after them.

So the Skins become the hogs. Pig skins. Pork rinds. I mean, as excited as everybody is over The Hogs, it seems that you could take any part of a pig to the stadium and sell it. Snouts, ears, feet, tongues, bellies, liver, and the list goes on and on. The leftover parts are used as (you fill in the blank).

I know I'll never be forgotten for this one. People never remember all the good, nice, positive things you write. But they'll remember one bad thing, even if it's a porky stab at humor, for years.

So sue me. I like basketball better than football. And even though I don't make New Year's resolutions, I do promise to be even more opinionated in the year to come and only hope our readers appreciate the perspective. Remember, it's not what's said that reveals intent, or may hurt someone's feelings. It's how it's said that counts. Happy New Year.

Art Saturdays Announced By Arts Center

Art Saturdays, the weekend art education program from youngsters seven to 12 years in age, is being offered in two 1984 monthly sessions January & February at the Virginia Beach Arts Center.

Classes, instructed by experienced teachers from area public and private school systems, are designed to enhance the create abilities of young people through exposure to various forms of self-expression in the visual arts.

In January students recreate designs and images familiar to the ancient and modern Olympic games. The February session, highlighted by a field trip and group project, teaches youngsters to create design elements that float and fly. Both sessions afford the opportunity to paint, draw and make sculptures.

Sessions are divided into two age groupings. Students from seven to nine meet Saturday mornings from 9:15 to 10:45 while the 10 to 12 group meets from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Students may register for one or both sessions at a cost of $16 and $22 for members and non-members, respectively. An additional $4 materials fee is required per session for each student.

Registration information is available at 425-0000.

"I'm Not Having Any More Birthdays"

"I'm not having any more birthdays," she insists.

Mary says she's always been an active person—dancing, roller and ice skating, golfing, playing shuffleboard and bingo. She is also a finicky eater. But for Mary, eating right and exercising is not necessarily the secret to life.

"The devil takes care of his own," she maintains.

For Christmas, Mary wanted "health, happiness and for people like me not to be a nuisance." Mary gets around on her own, or in a wheelchair, and is healthy except for a slight hearing impairment.

For the new year, Mary wants to be healthy. "The main thing is to be healthy and well," she said, wearing a flowered pastel purple leisure dress, a string of pearls, costume earrings and black shoes. "I see some invalids and think how fortunate I am at my age to be able to get around."

Mary is about 4'6" tall and weighs less than 100 lbs. Matthew Farmer, administrator at Mediscenter, says Mary and the center's other 116 residents all become excited during the holidays.

"They really enjoy the special attention," he said. The party for Mary was financed in part by the employees at the center who raised $30 by making and selling cookbooks.

Even though Mary says she's given up having birthdays, she has not given up on her determination to live a longer life and stay healthy.

"I want to stay active and healthy for as long as I live," she said. "I don't think I can ask for more."

Chimneys Must Be Inspected

Sweeping Their Way Into Your Home

By Virginia M. Browning

When most Virginia Beach residents hear the term "chimney sweep," visions of old England come to mind. Although the occupation of cleaning chimneys and literally "sweeping the insides out" did start in England centuries ago, the need lives on and the job of chimney sweep is still around, albeit not as well known as in the days of yore.

Local residents need not look too far to find a genuine chimney sweep to do this dirty job, in fact you only have to look as far as Naval Air Station Oceana Air Operations. Four years ago Air Controlman Aviation ASW Operator Chief (ACC (AW) Steve Riley III began carrying on a somewhat new family tradition, by working as a chimney sweep in the business his father started five years ago. And Steve fits the role rather well, all the way down to the top-hat and black tails he wears on the job.

Of course, there are other chimney sweeps in this area, but you can't really miss Chief Riley and his team of "sweeps," the company vehicle is a black hearse. Used because it's built the right way for carrying the chimney cleaning equipment, and because, well, you can't quite forget a chimney sweep who arrives in a hearse. About the unusual company transportation, Riley says "Sometimes it shakes-up our customers. They know the chimney sweep is coming, but they don't expect to see a black hearse drive up to the front of their house. A few years ago, a lady refused to open her door.

Eventually her young daughter answered and we explained who we were."

The business now has three hearses and four other part-time employees, all military, working on their days off. Air Controlman First Class (AC1) Clark McMakin, ACC (AW) Edward Goodey, Aerographer's Mate Second Class (AG2) Rana Long and AC3 Jay Harbin stay busy cleaning chimneys at a rate of about seventy per week during the busy season between July and February. Each chimney cleaning job takes two or three sweeps and requires about an hour to complete. Says ACC (AW) Riley, "It's a really filthy job, but it's fun and we have a pretty good time." Of course it's not all easy; there are many stories of cranky dogs, raccoons stuck in the flue, and irate squirrels who don't really like having their nests disturbed. But one of the most unusual happenings, according to Riley, was the snake in the chimney. "I thought it was a black stick, so I grabbed it to throw it out. When I tried to get away from me, I knew it wasn't a stick!"

But to Chief Riley it's all in a day's work and he takes the animals and reptiles in stride. In fact, he seems to really enjoy it all. As Steve Riley III strolls away, chimney broom over his shoulder, it's easy to imagine his singing the song from Mary Poppins: "...though I spend me time in ashes and smoke, in this whole wide world there's no happier bloke! Chim Chiminee Chim Chim Chereee!"

Hilltop Square Sold For $5.4 Million

Hilltop Square Shopping Center in Virginia Beach has been sold for $5.4 million, according to a news release prepared by Goodman Segar Hogan, Inc. which represented both the buyers and the sellers. ## TCC Measures Economic Impact

The economic impact of Tidewater Community College on the region served by the college was $58,351,000 in 1982-83, according to a recent TCC news release.

The college provides employment for over 1,100 people including teaching faculty, staff and work-study students. The majority of Tidewater Community College students and employees reside, work, and spend their income for goods and services in this area, thereby contributing directly to its economic growth.

The fall quarter 1983 enrollment at Tidewater Community College was almost 16,000 students, with most of them enrolled in courses and programs on a part-time basis. Occupational-technical career courses and programs attracted most of the students, with a substantial number of students also preparing for transfer to a four year college or university.

Tidewater Community College, established in 1968, is second in size, enrollment, and budget only to Northern Virginia Community College.

Tidewater Community College's three campuses are located in Portsmouth, Chesapeake, and Virginia Beach. The college works closely with representatives of business, industry, military organizations and local and national government agencies. The philosophy of the college stresses an active partnership with the community.

Baby Safety Seats At Hospital

WeCare baby car seats from Virginia Beach General Hospital (VBGH) have protected infants around the world and across the country. One young couple, Richard and Laura Ezell, traveled with their infant through Europe with a WeCare car seat. And one couple is returning the seat by mail from California.

Originally, the Auxiliary to the Hospital rented seats to parents of infants born at VBGH to help them comply with Virginia's new car safety regulations. But that hasn't stopped parents from safeguarding their children wherever they go.

Currently, more than 400 VBGH car seats are protecting newborns. Joyce Gray, president of the Auxiliary, commented, "We initiated the program for newborns to give parents an economical way to use a seat they will only need the short time. Once a baby is six months old, the seat must be returned."

Parents may rent the seats for a $15 fee if their child is born at VBGH. A $10 deposit is refunded if the seat is returned in good condition.

According to Mrs. Gray, "Many people have been so impressed with the program that they often allow the Hospital to keep the deposit as a donation. The WeCare rental also saves parents from having to buy an infant car seat, which usually costs about $40."

The theme for the rental plan is "First Ride-A Safe Ride." Parents learn how to use the seats correctly when they take the prenatal classes offered at VBGH.

Funding for the program was made possible through the combined efforts of the Auxiliary to VBGH, the Virginia Beach Junior Women's Club, RK Chevrolet, and other donations. RK Chevrolet continues to store the seats for VBGH.

"Overall, we have had a very good return rate on the seats," said Mrs. Gray. "It is a friendly service to provide. We sometimes send return reminders to young mothers who are surprised how rapidly the six months 'have passed,'" said Mary Morris, co-chairman of the project.

Though few anticipated the car seats would be used worldwide, the WeCare car seats are protecting hundreds of infants wherever they go with a program that is spreading successfully to other hospitals.

The VBGH Auxiliary recently assisted DePaul Hospital in initiating a successful program in an effort to aid even more parents and newborns in Virginia.

Bayside Grad Hits The Sea

Tradition has played a major role in the life of Virginia Beach native, John Spiller III, a lieutenant aboard USS Grayback (SS-547). Spiller, a Naval Academy graduate, is not only the third generation of Spillers to graduate from the academy, but the third to qualify as a submariner.

On January 15, 1984, Spiller's ship, USS Grayback (SS-547) will leave the Seventh Fleet forever. The graduate of Bayside High School will see Grayback, a submarine, be decommissioned.

Spiller, 27, Grayback's engineering officer, is the son of Arlington, Va.'s John Spiller Jr.

Grayback is unique among submarines; not only is she the largest diesel-powered submarine in the world, but she is the only one specially configured for bottoming operations, and one of two submarines homeported overseas.

Her mission too, is unique—a combination of special warfare and anti-submarine warfare.

But, according to Spiller, Grayback "is a tired ship."

Not so the young Navy lieutenant, who eagerly eyes 30 years of Naval service.

He also hopes to become the first Spiller to make admiral.

When Grayback is decommissioned Jan. 15, 1984, her fate is uncertain. But Lt. Spiller knows exactly where he is going. He has orders to the Strategic Systems Project Office in Washington, D.C.

Brookwood Elementary School, with over 150 students, counselors and staff in attendance.

The theme was "The Challenge of Leadership." Mr. Will S. Peachy and Ms. Diana L. Derrick are the directors for all the Leadership Workshops for the Virginia Beach S.C.A. The Elementary workshop is held for one day. During the summer a three-day junior high school, and a five-day senior high school workshop are held at Virginian Wesleyan College. The purpose of these workshops is to train and build leaders in interested young students.

Skip Brown, one of the 17 high school students chosen to be on staff, said, "I've been to the S.C.A. workshops for four years and have always returned to school motivated by lots of new ideas."

Skip is a senior at Bayside High School and has been involved in the S.C.A. since he was in Junior High School. Many of the High School students on staff have returned several times to these workshops finding they can contribute more efficiently at their school, by the knowledge they acquired.

Some of the subjects covered by the students were: leadership skills parliamentary procedure, project planning, publicity, effective meetings, committees and communication.

Brown said, "Virginia Beach has a very active S.C.A. program. The young people are brought closer together not only through the workshops, but by the gatherings of the City-wide S.C.A. meetings held each month at Plaza Junior High School."

The Virginia Beach S.C.A. brings a unity throughout the Virginia Beach school system, keeping students, teachers and parents informed of all student programs and activities within the school system.

Ms. Derrick said, "After attending the workshops the students should return to their schools with confidence and leadership techniques, full of spirit and ready to put their knowledge into action."

The Tidewater Branch of the Christian Volunteers of America has focused its holiday human service efforts on a program designed to assist Virginia Beach disabled and low income families in need of emergency housing, according to Executive Director, Frederick H. Hodges.

"We've covered the tall spruce tree on the front lawn of our administration building at 2817 Virginia Beach Boulevard into a Christmas tree of light, symbolizing love and hope for those in need this holiday season," Hodges said.

"We need $20,000 in order to house these unfortunate folk," he continued. "And each contribution to this goal will be represented by one of the many of thousands of colored lights covering the tree."

"I'm sure those who contribute to our emergency housing program also will receive a good feeling, knowing that others less fortunate will be able to enjoy a safe, warm and comfortable place to live," he added, "not only during the holidays, but in the year ahead."

Who Caught The Big Ones?

A total of 2,540 trophy-size fish were registered in the 26th annual Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament which closed Nov. 30. State records were established in two of the Tournament's 23 divisions.

P.W. Halstead of Norfolk set a state record and a world all-tackle record with a 19-pound gray trout caught at the Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel. Halstead's fish displaced the Virginia record 17-pound, three-ounce trout caught in 1980 by Larry Phillips of Virginia Beach. It also displaced the all-tackle record 17-pound, 14-ounce trout taken from New York's Long Island Sound the same year.

Pat Kelly of Athens, Ga., captured a 255-pound, eight-ounce bigeye tuna, 51 pounds heavier than any tuna ever registered in the Tournament. All tunas - bluefin, yellowfin and bigeye—are listed in a single category in the Tournament.

Final tabulations show that white marlin releases topped all categories. Anglers earned 585 Release Citations for freeing whites compared to only 79 anglers earning awards for fish meeting the 50-pound qualifying minimum.

Black Drum were in second place with 285 meeting the 70-pound Citation minimum weight requirement. Tautog were in third place with 265 weighing at least nine pounds minimum.

Citations are awarded to all anglers entering their catches in any of the 23 divisions. The fish needs only to meet the Tournamer's minimum weight requirements for its division.

The four-color Citation awards, mounted on hardboard plaques and preserved under a coating of clear plastic, are hand-lettered with the angler's name, and the weight and species of his winning fish.

In addition, special release Citations are awarded for setting free any size white marlin, blue marlin, sailfin or tarpon.

There have been 80,269 Citations earned since the Tournament's inauguration in 1958. The bluefish is the all-time leader with 11,590 Citations, followed by flounder with 10,076 and black drum with 8,631.

The Tournament is operated by the Virginia Department of Conservation and Economic Development for the promotion of the Commonwealth's saltwater angling resources.

In addition to Citation awards, handsome trophies are awarded to anglers with the heaviest individual entries. They are sponsored by private firms interested in the promotion of saltwater sport fishing in Virginia.

Realtor = Service

By ROGER PYLE

When you purchase a home, the selling price will bear whether you use a Realtor or not. If you do not use a Realtor, you are penalizing yourself severely because your Realtor can do a lot for you. Here are a few of those services. Remember most Realtors work on 100% commission (Brave Lads and Lasses) so you should select a good one from a reputable firm and be loyal to them.

If you are coming from out of town, they can send maps and make temporary housing arrangements for you. Upon your arrival, they can meet you, take you to your lodging, help get the kids in school, provide a comprehensive area briefing and show you suitable property in the best locations. They can help you analyze the pros and cons of properties that you are focusing on, advise you on house payments, taxes and utilities, write your contract so that you get what you want at the best price, negotiate the contract, arrange the loan and go to settlement with you to insure a smooth transaction.

Philadelphia Firm Selects Chesapeake C&S Transit Co.

C&S Transit of Chesapeake, has been tapped by the Philadelphia-based transit system, SEPTA, to overhaul completely several dozen heavy rail vehicles at a cost estimated at over $2.5 million.

The contract, announced last week, calls for some 20-59 Silverliner 1 and II cars to undergo a complete rehabilitation, including major electronic and electrical repair, overhauling to frames, wheels, motors and componentry as well as significant work in the interior areas of the vehicles.

"This is an exciting moment for our young company," says C&S President, Lewis E. Foster. "We will be delivering three cars per month to SEPTA starting in January, and we anticipate final figures on the actual number of cars available for overhaul to be determined no later than mid-1984."

Work on the SEPTA contract will be performed at the C&S plant at 2600 Yacht Drive in Chesapeake. C&S Vice President and General Manager Russell J. Figuera explains that some two dozen new positions will be created at the site as a result of the contract, and area hires are expected to fill the positions.

In addition, there will be one local subcontractor, Chesport Construction of Chesapeake, which will provide major labor and project assistance. "We're particularly pleased that we could develop an ambitious partnership with a local firm," adds Figuera. Just as automobiles, airlines and other modes of transportation all require constant maintenance and care, so too do railway cars demand specialized, comprehensive technical attention. While public transit authority budgets have precluded overhaul work in past years, most industry analysts agree that the benefits of rehabilitating older, sturdier railcars far outweigh the prohibitive costs associated with the procurement of newly manufactured vehicles.

New Phone System Announced

Starting Jan. 1, telephone customers will no longer need to dial the 703 or 804 area codes when making long distance directory assistance calls for Virginia telephone numbers. To get this information customers will dial 1-555-1212, said Dennis O'Hearn, superintendent-telephone services.

ce C&P Telephone operators will be handling all directory assistance information for intrastate (within the state) long distance calls, dialing the area codes 703 or 804 will no longer be necessary," explained O'Hearn.

O'Hearn said to call long distance directory assistance for out-of-state telephone numbers, customers should continue to dial 1+ area code +555-1212.

IF YOU DRINK... DON'T DRIVE

No. 1 Public Health Problem

More than 30 percent of the drinking age population in America don't drink at all. They never have. They made a choice that doesn't include alcohol.

Most of the group that does drink are able to handle it. They don't let alcohol control them. But there are those who consider drinking a solution to their problems. For these people, alcohol is winning the battle for control of their lives.

It's because these things don't have to happen. The Maryview Psychiatric Hospital and Community Mental Health Center has developed a chemical dependency program and recently expanded it to include detoxification, rehabilitation and follow-up services for the entire Tidewater area.

Alcoholism is a disease which has crippling effects on the whole family. At Maryview Psychiatric Hospital, a multi-disciplinary team provides the support, care and concern necessary for the recovery of those dependent on alcohol and other drugs. This is done in an informal and intimate setting which provides flexibility in meeting individual needs. The chemical dependency program includes medically-supervised detoxification, complete individual evaluation in concert with the family's physician, and a treatment process. Treatment focuses not only on the patient's needs, but also on the attitudes, emotions and expectations of family, friends and the community.

The program goal is to help the patient learn to cope without resorting to drugs or alcohol, and to ensure that recovery goes beyond abstinence to include a restoration of health in family living, social functioning and personal growth.

The greatest asset of the program is a caring and concerned staff of professionals with a personal understanding of the joys and satisfaction of a life of sobriety.

Ron Hogged is program co-ordinator. He first experienced alcoholism as a youngster, growing up in North Carolina. Later, during service in the U.S. Navy, Ron realized he personally had such a problem and sought assistance from a superior officer who had told him one day, "If you ever decide you need help with your drinking, come see me."

"No thanks.
I'm driving."

Four words that may save your life or someone else's

"No thanks. I'm driving."

Try this response the next time someone offers you a beer or cocktail and you plan to take the driver's seat. Avoiding alcohol or limiting your drinking before driving is one of the best ways to keep the intoxicated motorist off the road.

Alcohol impaired drivers are the most serious highway hazard in the U.S. today. In one way or another their presence on the highway tragically affects us all.

Every year drinking drivers are involved in at least half the fatal traffic crashes, killing over 350 in Virginia and some 25,000 in the nation. They contribute to a million injuries and cost the country $5 billion in damages.

No one is immune from the possibility of an alcohol-related tragedy. Not only do motorists who abuse alcohol increase their chances of destroying themselves but they kill and injure others as well.

The probability of sharing the road with an alcohol impaired driver is frightening. One out of every 10 drivers on a Friday or Saturday night is driving under the influence of alcohol.

Protect yourself and others from becoming a victim. Be certain your drinking and driving falls within the limits of safety and common sense. Teach by example.

Support community efforts to prevent alcohol abuse. Educate people of all ages on the dangers of traveling in a vehicle driven by someone who is intoxicated.

When an individual drinks too much offer the person a ride home. Encourage others to do the same. These positive actions can help everyone live longer.

Join The Fight!

The Tidewater Council on Alcoholism is a private, non-profit health agency made up of volunteers who actively work toward the prevention and reduction of alcoholism and alcohol related problems through programs of advocacy, education in the community and schools, and public information for over 20 years they have operated the alcohol information center which provides confidential referrals for individuals on family members experiencing problems with alcohol.

Volunteers and self help groups have historically been the backbone of the alcoholism helping network in the United States. Join them in fighting this treatable disease.

If you would like to become a member of the Tidewater Council on Alcoholism and help them increase citizen awareness and reduce the stigma of alcoholism, call them at 588-1495.

This New Year's Eve, the Tidewater Council on Alcoholism will be offering a "Free Ride Home" to individuals in order to reduce the number of drinking drivers on the road this New Year's Eve.

Radio and TV public service announcements will be on the air and flyers in all clubs and lounges will publicize this service and the number 622-MUCH.

They have a great need for drivers willing to stand by their phones on New Year's Eve to provide a ride if called. They will try to match your telephone prefixes to stay close to your neighborhood.

Please help them in this important community service. If you have a valid drivers license and would like to help drive or know anyone who would like to help on New Year's Eve call the office at 588-1495 or fill out the form in the ad on the right and send it in.

This Time Of Year Problem Drinkers Have A Lot Of Help.

Many families are so busy during the holiday season that they don't have time to deal with the problems of alcoholism. In fact, some families don't even know that alcoholism is a real problem for the holiday season.

When families need it, friends, neighbors, everyone to join in a drinking, even those who have the help of a professional with drinking may find it hard to refuse.

But when the drinking starts they find it even harder to quit. Don't let your family add to an annual holiday tragedy. Be alert for those who seem to be drinking. No matter how much they drink, don't let them drink alone. Even more important, if you are someone you love who doesn't recognize

The Hint Man

By CHUCK FAULKNER

Pins, Keeping Them Sharp— Instead of laying them flat in a tin, stick them in a bar of toilet soap. It lubricates them, keeps them pointed, and makes them much easier to use.

Plastic Odors, Removing— Soak the item overnight in equal parts of cold water and white vinegar. This will keep them soft as well, whether they're tablecloths, curtains, or placemats. Rinse them well the next morning.

Plastic Shower Curtains, Cleaning— Put curtains into the washer with two large beach towels, then add half a cup of detergent and half a cup of baking soda. Fill the machine with warm water and run through the entire washing cycle. Add one cup of white vinegar to the final rinse water. Note: Do not spin dry. If possible, hang them out in the open air.

Poison Ivy— Gently rub meat tenderizer directly onto the affected area to stop the burning.

Porcelain, Cleaning— One of the easiest methods is to sprinkle a piece of flannel with household salt, then rub. It usually works like a charm.

Winter Depression

To cope with the rigors of winter, some creatures migrate, others grow fur, still others hibernate. In human beings these tendencies seem to be expressed in winter-induced depression, the January Reader's Digest reports. To combat the winter doldrums, the magazine recommends increased exercise and an active social life.

We Need Cholesterol

Most people believe that foods containing cholesterol should be avoided. But this conclusion, declares the January Reader's Digest, ignores the fact that the normal human body needs cholesterol—about 100 milligrams each day—and that if you don't ingest it, the body will produce it anyway.

Everyone Loves Lucy!

It may not be the face that launched a thousand ships, but it's one that's been seen by more people the world over than any other. That face belongs to Lucille Ball, reveals the January Reader's Digest. Everybody loves Lucy!

Bat Is Good Luck

For us Westerners, the bat is a creature of the moonlight world—a queer, coat-hangerish thing. It's a different matter in the Far East. According to the January Reader's Digest, bats are symbols of good luck in the Orient.

A sample menu from "Diet Simply...With Soup," a new book available in grocery stores for $4.95.

Diet Simply...Do It With Soup

Fad diets come and go, but let's face it, what really works is an easy-to-live-with, nutritionally balanced meal plan that's flexible and incorporates a wide variety of foods. That's precisely what Campbell Soup Company is offering in its just published book, "Diet Simply...With Soup."

The book, published by Pocket Books and written by dietitian Gail Becker, has three diet plans. The Kick-It-Off Diet is a ten-day program for fast weight loss to get you started; the Take-It-Off Diet is a long term plan; and the Keep-It-Off-Forever is designed for weight maintenance.

In addition to three diets, the book addresses two other important elements of successful weight-loss: exercise and behavior modification. The book is available in supermarkets for $4.95.

None of the three weight loss plans uses so-called "diet foods," and ingredients in all the recipes that accompany the diets are readily available in grocery stores. Menus and recipes are varied and imaginative. Here, for example, is the menu for Day 5 of the Take-It-Off Diet. Complementary flavors, colors and textures, along with good taste, have been carefully combined to please the senses and assure satisfaction.

Dinner

1 cup prepared Campbell's Old Fashioned Vegetable Soup
2 broiled lamb chops (2 1/4" x 2" x 1 1/4")
1 serving Rice Stuffed Tomatoes

Rice Stuffed Tomatoes

1/2 can (10 1/2 ounce size) Campbell's Condensed Consomme
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup raw regular long-grain rice
1 small clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon chopped fresh dill or 1/4 teaspoon dried dill weed
1/8 teaspoon pepper
4 medium tomatoes
Salad greens

In small saucepan, combine all ingredients except tomatoes and greens. Cover; bring to boil. Reduce heat to low; cook 20 minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Stir occasionally. Chill. Place tomatoes stem-end down. With knife, cut each tomato almost to stem end, making 6 sections; spread apart slightly. Carefully cut out and chop enough tomato pulp to measure 1/2 cup; stir into rice. Place tomatoes on salad greens; fill with rice mixture. Garnish with additional dill. Makes 4 servings.

Win A Trip To Sunny Southern California In 1984

Imagine winning a trip to Southern California just for becoming involved in the health of your community!

Junior and senior high school home economics and health related classes and individual college students can become eligible for this trip, as well as other prizes, by entering the Fleischmann's Yeast "Share The Health" Contest.

The contest has a grand prize of $2,000 in scholarship funds and an expense paid trip to Anaheim, site of the 1984 American Home Economics Association Convention. The first place class, its teacher and the first place college student will tour the city and surrounding Los Angeles area and visit the convention exhibits during their June trip.

Scholarships ranging from $250 to $2,000 will be awarded. Other prizes include pizza parties, dinners-for-two and trips for the second and third place winning teachers.

All contest participants find personal satisfaction in their active involvement in their local communities, and they benefit from the increased knowledge they gain in nutrition, menu planning, budget and time management.

To enter the contest, junior/senior high school classes and individual college students must select a particular segment of their community, such as senior citizens, children under 12, people on special medical diets, athletes or the overweight. Contest participants must analyze the nutritional needs of their chosen group, plan a week of practical menus to meet those needs, and share what has been learned with their respective groups.

Entries must be postmarked by March 9, 1984. Winners will be notified in writing by May 31, 1984.

A free contest rules folder and entry blank may be obtained by writing to: Nabisco Brands Educational Service, Drawer A, Madison Square Station, New York, New York 10010.

Christmas Plants Can Remain Beautiful All Year

Those beautiful Christmas plants can remain beautiful all year long if they receive proper care, noted E.P. Curling Jr., Virginia Cooperative Extension Agent for Chesapeake.

Poinsettias are sensitive plants and often disappoint people when they do not receive the proper care. Drafts, too cool or too warm temperatures, sudden temperature changes, dry atmosphere, improper water, and low light intensity can cause loss of leaves and withering of bracts, Curling said.

"To care for the poinsettia in the home, place the plant in a sunny window, but the leaves should not touch the cold window pane. If placed in a window, the plant should be removed at night if there is danger of chilling. One should strive for a uniform temperature 65° to 70° during the day, and 60°F at night. Poinsettias should not be exposed to cold or hot air drafts.

"The poinsettia plant must receive adequate, but not excess water. Apply water when the soil feels dry or changes color from a dark to light color, or feels light when lifted. Soak the soil completely to the bottom of the pot, and be sure the excess water can drain freely. The plant will die rather quickly if the soil remains wet," Curling noted.

Cyclamen

"Cyclamen has attractive flowers and foliage, and it is one of the most beautiful plants for Christmas and early winter holidays," Curling added. "It is usually available with several flowers and many buds in all stages of development.

"Cool temperature and maximum light are essential to get an extended color display. The leaves will turn yellow and the buds die if the temperature is too warm. Also, if the light is poor or if the plants become dry or overwatered, the leaves will turn yellow."

Christmas Pepper

"Christmas Pepper is quite decorative and fits well into the holiday color scheme. Place the plant where it will receive good light and cool temperatures. This annual is sold when in full fruits, and should be discarded when no longer attractive.

"Loss of leaves and fruit is often the result of insufficient watering, or a warm, dry condition," the extension agent said.

Data-Loaded, But No Information

The Federal government is loaded with data but no information, says a group of corporate executives assigned by President Reagan to search out inefficiency. Their discoveries, according to the January Reader's Digest, include the fact that no one knows how many people are fed by federal programs, what's in inventory or even where that inventory is stored. How can you begin to cut your overhead when you don't know what it is?

Hooked On Arab Oil

It's true that the gasoline lines have disappeared, the price of fuel has stopped spiraling upward and today there's an oil "surplus" instead of "shortfall," but still there's no cause for complacency.

As long as "we remain hooked on Arab oil, energy crisis No. 3 is as likely as future upheaval in the Middle East," Reader's Digest reports in its January issue.

Swartzentruber Named To Bally's Team

Merline Swartzentruber, a senior at Kempsville High School, has been named to 'Bally's 1983 High School Football All-America,' the only national squad picked by the coaches. In a first for high school sports, a national television special saluting Swartzentruber and the full Bally All-America squad will air across the country both Christmas and New Year's weekend.

An offensive lineman, Swartzentruber led his team to the state playoffs with a 13-0 record. This year he was named as All-Virginia Beach District, as well as All-Tidewater District. Not only a football player, Swartzentruber placed in the final four of the heavyweight division of the state wrestling championships and is on the track team. He is coached by Ralph Gahagan.

Swartzentruber was selected from among the 957,000 high school football players in the country for the All-America by the National High School Athletic Coaches Association. In cooperation with Bally Manufacturing Corporation, the $1.3 billion leisure and recreation company. Players are elected to Bally's All-America on the basis of high school performance on the field and in the classroom.

By the time a high school gridders makes the final cut for Bally's All-America, his credentials and qualifications have passed through rigorous scrutiny at the local, state, regional and national level. Since certified NHCASA coaches are an integral part of the preliminary selection process, the members of Bally's All-America are chosen by those who know them best - the coaches. "In addition to recognizing prep football stand-outs for their superior performance, this All-America program salutes the other five and one half million young persons who participate in prep athletic programs across the country," said Robert E. Mullane, president and chairman of Bally.

Members of "Bally's 1983 High School Football All-America," and their high schools receive inscribed award plaques and trophies commemerative of this national honor. The NHCASA is the professional association of 45,000 men and women high school coaches in twenty sports whose purpose is to assist in the development of America's youth through wholesome experiences in high school athletics.

Chicago-based Bally, perhaps best known for such video game hits as PacMan, Space Invaders, Tron and Ms. PacMan, is also the parent company of Six Flags theme parks, 280 health and fitness centers, 450 family amusement centers and the Lacer Yacht Company.

Monthly Police Traffic Summary

The 1,896 D.U.I. arrests made by the police department through the end of November had already exceeded the 1830 total arrests made last year. With the holidays approaching, the Virginia Beach Police Department can be assured that many more individuals will be arrested this month.

If you are giving a party this holiday season, be responsible and follow these tips to help ensure the safety of your friends and loved ones.

- Always serve food with alcohol.
- Have several jiggers at the bar so mixed drinks can be measured.
- If you serve an alcoholic punch, make it with a non-carbonated base.
- Have non-alcoholic beverages available for guests.
- Stop serving alcohol about an hour before the party is to end.
- If you observe a guest who has had too much to drink, don't let them drive (find them a ride home or call a cab; invite them to spend the night; when all other measures fail, call the police).
